Experience the lighter side of life

By Katelyn Boulanger

Local artist Beverly Hart will be exhibiting her whimsical paintings at Winnipeg's Wayne Arthur Gallery this November.

"My exhibit is called The Lighter Side of Life and it's about my paintings of women on bicycles. I have a series of them, about a dozen," said Hart

Hart was drawn to the idea of women on bicycles because she likes the sense of freedom and movement that bicycles bring to her paintings making it appear that the women depicted are on the move.

"I wanted to emphasize that women work hard. They wear a lot of hats and they do a lot of things. But along with it all, it's good to remember to lighten up and have fun. Get out and ride your bike," Hart said.

Hart, along with women on bicycles, paints cows, pigs, and images that she remembers from her childhood in Alberta.

"I started making art when I moved to Selkirk in 1999. We've been here for 20 years. My husband bought me paints, all of the colours, for a Christmas gift one year and I've been painting ever since," she said.

She originally started to sell her art at her sister's teahouse in Alberta making two of every painting so that one could be sent away.

"When we moved here, I didn't know a soul in Selkirk and my husband had his own construction company so he was gone a good part of the day, so the painting filled my time," said Hart.

Hart prefers to paint with acrylics as they allow her to paint quickly and see the final result sooner than other kinds of paint.

"I like to make my own version of what I see. I like colour. I'm self taught but I've studied a lot about colour and I like using the colour wheel. I've always been looking for something that I've never seen before in art and I think this is one way of me making paintings of something that I've been looking for always. Something that kind of stops me in my tracks," she said.

This is not Hart's only creative endeavour having a history of sewing, quilt making, and flower arranging.

"I've always had this creative streak I'm just channeling it differently now," she said.

In all of her creative endeavours she hopes to put smiles of the faces of people who view her art.

"I hope that when they come to this exhibit it shows a fun side of life, to slow down enjoy the day and smile. These women are not perfect ladies they have flaws, like us all, but they still enjoy life and make the best of it," said Hart.

The exhibit will be available until the 27th of November with a reception where you will be able to meet Hart scheduled on Nov. 3 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Hart will also be at the Country Craft Sale at East Selkirk Hall on Oct. 27 and you can keep up with her on Facebook at beverly.hart.710 and Instagram at beverlyhart0709.

MP James Bezan embarks on sixth term

By Ligia Braidotti

While Canada elected a minority Liberal government, PC candidate James Bezan celebrated another victory.

Bezan was elected Member of Parliament for the Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman riding on Oct. 21, with more than 30,700 votes, 22,000 more than his NDP opponent Robert Smith, who came in second with 8,743 votes. The local MP is in his sixth consecutive term representing the riding at the House of Commons of Canada.

"It is such a humbling experience to continue to get the support of everyone here in Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman. I am so proud of carrying our Conservative Tory blue flag," he said at his victory speech.

Bezan was first elected to office in 2004 and has been a strong advocate for rural communities and the agricultural industry. He told the Record that one of his priorities is dealing with the challenging weather that farmers faced throughout the season and the impacts it caused in their businesses. Also, the MP who leveraged more than $35 million to protect Manitoba's lakes is planning to continue his environmental work.

"I still believe strongly in the one policy we had in our platform, which was putting an end to dumping raw sewage into our waterways and protecting Lake Winnipeg," he said.

Since the last election in 2015, Bezan has fought for marketing freedom for Western Canadian farmers and ending the long-gun registry. Beyond complex policies, Bezan also dedicated his work to the issue of Ukrainian democracy and human rights. He was one of 13 Canadian officials sanctioned by the Russian government in 2014 and has received numerous awards for his initiatives to recognize the Holodomor.

Although the Liberals won by a plurality of votes with 157 seats, the Conservatives won the popular vote with 34.5 per cent and 121 seats. The NDP finished the race with 24 seats. Bezan commented that the results send a strong message to the Liberal Party and Prime Minister Justin Trudeau that they still a lot to be accountable for.

"If you look at the results here in Manitoba and the percentage of Conservative votes across Western Canada, it should send a pretty strong message to Justin Trudeau and the Liberals that they are not well-liked in the west and they have a lot of work to do to regain the trust on the prairie region," he said.

This will be Bezan's fourth minority government, and he commented they are always challenging and short-lived. However, it will all come down to the other parties' support to the Liberals.

"We saw positive movement. A year ago, they had already written us off. Four years ago, nobody thought that we could stop the Trudeau government, but here he is. He is not in majority territory. He still has a lot to answer for," he said. "I still believe we fought for a great platform and had a large percentage of Canadians that were standing behind us."

C2C musical returns to community for second year

Local musicians raise funds to support vulnerable children in Uganda

By Katelyn Boulanger

Kurt Petersen has once again assembled local performers to raise funds for Change 2 Change, a project that supports vulnerable children in Uganda. The 2nd annual C2C Musical will take place starting at 2 p.m. at Christ Church in Selkirk Oct. 27.

"It's basically getting together local artists from the area, so Selkirk, St. Andrews, and St. Clements areas and a few sometimes beyond that. We get local artists and musicians together and it gives them a chance to expose their talents.

Some of them are not so well know but they are beautifully gifted in playing live music and so we get them together and they play onstage to a live audience," said Petersen.

This years line up includes performers The Bog Boys, Ross Williamson, and Luciano.

The musical will also include Ugandan crafts for sale, made in Change 2 Change's craft class, as well as Ugandan coffee. There'll also be door prizes, auction prizes, refreshments, a light lunch, and sweet treats.

Petersen first went to Uganda in 2009 when he decided to do some travelling but also wanted to make a positive impact while he was away. He connected with an orphanage and felt the need to continue to help the com-

"I began this mission project in 2010 by collecting pennies. At that time, it was called Pennies for Change but then as they phased out the pennies here in Canada, I had to change the name to Change 2 Change," he said.

"Our mission is to rescue vulnerable children who are in dire conditions and we raise them up to be citizens of integrity. We educate them. We give them sponsorships. We even have our own training centre and youth centre in the community," said Petersen.

The children's home, which they call the home of champions, currently houses just over ten children while the youth centre sees over 100 children come through it's doors per week.

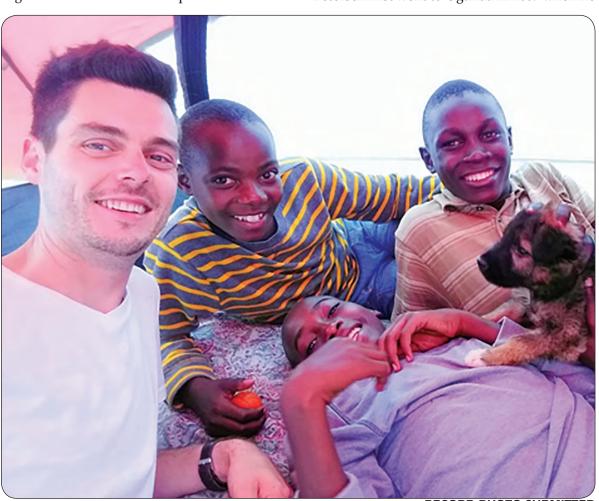

"We focus more on life skills, things that are going to bring more sustainable methods to them there in Uganda. We have sewing classes, craft making classes, literacy classes for kids who've never been to school or they've dropped out so that they can regain their education, and then we have different fellowships and things catered to young people," said Petersen

To fund these endeavors, Petersen runs events like the C2C Musical as the local government does not contribute in the same way that the Canadian government does for Canadian community centres.

"I never imagined [that Change 2 Change would grow so large]. I had a plan to be in Vancouver and work on films and that was what I thought I wanted to do. Then, I had this life changing trip," said Petersen.

Tickets for the C2C Musical are $10, children 12 and under are free, and can be purchased in advance by calling 204-485-2467 or at the door on the day of the event.

> Fish tales?

Haven't you read your fishing manual?

Hi fellow fishers.

It was blustery enough on the Hnausa pier last week for anglers to be wearing snowmobile suits as were Marvin and Mary Sveistrup of Stonewall when I met them there enjoying some fishing. A retired teacher and softball champion, Marvin was a man with a forceful nature that had served him well as a young boy. He shared with us, how many years ago as a teenager he went commercial ice fishing on Lake Manitoba by Vogar with his father and brother Hal.

His gaze fell on two commercial fishers dressed in heavy, yellow slicks rounding their skiff into harbour as his mind went back in time and he spoke of standing on the running board of his father's Model T truck holding onto the open door as the truck slipped over the new first ice of the winter fishing season. He remembered the free, happy feeling he and his brother experienced riding on the boards as his dad drove, the small motor under the truck hood ticking along nicely.

Dad slowed the truck as they came to their stick marker in the ice which held the nets draw line. The shore was a far off thin black line. They pulled chipping bars and their "safety poles" from the back of the truck box and made an ice hole around the marker some two feet in size. Their "poles" lay close by. Their father had taught them to carry a thin pole a little longer than themselves when on thin ice. He told them that if they broke through to hang onto the pole which would distribute their weight and roll over it back onto the ice surface.

With an ice hole now made, the boys fetched a modified pitchfork with its tine ends curved backwards. They snagged the nets lead line with it and pulled their nets from under the ice laden with fish.

As Marvin was finishing his story I noticed across the harbor bay the two fishers who had come in from their morning lift were transferring their fish from the skiff to their truck. I said my goodbyes to Marvin and Mary and drove around to the other side of the bay to talk to them.

"How's the fishing?" I asked a tall, young guy by the landing as I got out of my truck. "Fair," he responded. "Can I ask your name and what you're catching?" I inquired. "Yeah I'm Arron Magnusson. We're catching some pickerel and a lot of whitefish and tullibee about a kilometer off shore," he said as he hurried to help his father. "Thanks Arron," I said getting into my truck. I knew he had a lot of fish processing ahead of him with his dad who had unloaded the skiff already and I didn't want to hold them up.

I found it interesting though that a day later I was over at Balsam Bay and another commercial fishing father and son team was unloading their catch into the truck at shore. They didn't want to give their names but they did say that they were catching pickerel and goldeye at about a kilometer off shore.

Some time ago I met a grey haired, cordial, chap of average stature who spoke in a fluid easy manner as he fished off the Selkirk waterfront pier. His name was Mr. Templeton and he shared this delightful story of the tender feelings of young lads. Many years ago he took his young son Michael and the sons friend Paul fishing at Nutimik Lake. They got there on Friday evening and Templeton went to work setting up a big tent while the boys ran over to a dock and eagerly began fishing. Soon young Paul came running back to Templeton, his face proudly beaming, holding up a very small sturgeon he had just caught.

Templeton stood looking at the boy and sadly had to tell him that he couldn't keep it. The boy was crestfallen! Templeton in a soothing voice said, "You put water in that big cooler over there, drop the fish in and we'll see." He figured they weren't leaving

Nutimik for two days which would give him enough time to bring the boy around to letting the fish go. With the fish swimming in the cooler Templeton took the boys to the local store and during idle conversation told the owner his problem. "Haven't you read your fishing manual? You have to let the sturgeon go right away!" the store owner chided.

Templeton was mortified! How would he spare the boys' feelings! He drove back to camp and no sooner had the car stopped, the boys jumped out and ran to the shore. They grabbed the cooler and dumped it over. The fish swam free. "We decided, he's our friend so we let him go Mr. Templeton,"Paul said with an innocent smile. "You did good boys," Templeton responded, relieved he would not have to be the "bad guy" and insist the fish be let go!

So long, till next week my friends.

Selkirk Bear Clan's mobile unit gets upgrade

Magnets get positive reception from community

By Katelyn Boulanger

Selkirk's Bear Clan is going to be more visible in the community with the arrival of new magnets that attach to the vehicles of their mobile unit, allowing residents to identify them while they are out and about.

"I really, really wanted these mobile magnets. I'm so relieved that we finally have them because, when we'd go looking for a missing person, people would go and look and [wonder] 'Who are we?,' because we are driving around at night, but there was nothing to say that we were Bear Clan," said Community Liaison for the Selkirk Bear Clan Tara Campbell.

"They didn't know who we were. Now that they know who we are, I think it will be a lot better. [Residents will see that we are eves out there later in the night," she said.

The Selkirk Bear Clan was originally formed in 2017 when a group of women came together and created a group modeled after the success that Winnipeg was having with their Bear Clan unit. The model was then adapted to suit the needs of Selkirk's more rural community.

"Our biggest thing is non-violent crisis intervention. If we can ease the situation without it escalating we will, and if we can make it so that we don't have to involve the police right away we'll do it to. We aren't the police. We aren't the RCMP. We're just here to ease tension in different ways," said Selkirk Bear Clan's Chairperson Marlena Muir.

Both Campbell and Muir have been involved with the group since the beginning and are glad of the positive reception that the mobile unit has had since they've received the magnets.

"We've had lots of good feedback from it. Just people saying 'It's nice to see you out. It helps to give a sense of safety and security. [It's] a different sense than the RCMP can provide, just knowing that it's your neighbour or somebody else, a familiar face, it really helps to ease people's tension," said Muir.

The Selkirk Bear Clan is also part of the Crime Prevention Advisory Board in Selkirk and also keeps in touch with the RCMP.

"We provide resources, safety, community networking, connections to spiritual care either through the churches or through the traditional lodges and sweats. It's just a lot about protection and in the community there are a lot of resources that people don't know about and we provide support to a lot of the families," said Campbell.

Like the original Bear Clan in Winnipeg, the Selkirk Bear Clan patrols the

"The difference for us, [as compared to Winnipeg Bear Clan] I really believe, is that we have the time and we can see people who are scared to leave their home and [if] they are depressed," said Campbell.

As part of this effort, residents can reach out to the Bear Clan if they are feeling unsafe in the community. In the past, the group has brought in the FireHeart Women's Drumming Group to help facilitate this spiritual healing and sense of safety and secu-

We have a vehicle or vehicles that we can use throughout our volunteers that are reliable safe vehicles and I believe it also shows again that sense of safety and security. Having a mobile sign, having that vehicle, knowing that if we get a call or if someone gives us a message we can do our absolute best to get there as fast as possible," said

The Bear Clan is also seeking more residents to volunteer with the group particularly to help with security at this year's Holiday Alley. To contact them about volunteering they can be reached by messaging their Facebook page at www.facebook.com/ bearclanpatrolselkirk/?tn-str=k*F or by email at selkirkbearclan@gmail.

School bee project has a successful first year

By Katelyn Boulanger

Last year East Selkirk Middle School welcomed two beehives onto the school grounds as part of a project designed to engage students in sustainability, and environmental accountability.

This fall the students reaped the rewards of their hard work when they harvested 102 lbs of honey from the new hives.

"We have a core group of students who do the checking, and the working, and the feeding of the bees. We have a parent who has come in to help us medicate the bees. There's a lot more to it than peanut butter and honey but we've learned that it's a really worth while educational project for the kids, staff and parents," said Vice Principal Bob Kovachik.

The idea for the project came to Kovachik when he was sitting in car listening to radio and learned about bee colonies at Red River Community College Campus and a school in the Seven Oaks School Division.

"Manitoba Hydro had put out a grant proposal [asking] for people to write in for a Manitoba Sustainability grant and you could win up to $2,000 worth of funding for a project," he said

Because of its rural location and proximity to crop land, the school was an ideal place for a project like this and received the grant to purchase bee colonies, protective equipment, smoker, extractor and hive tools. Two hives were also donated to the project by local beekeeper Collin Stone who also put on workshops for students, faculty and parents.

"First we had to buy all of the equipment, so your hive tools and the bee brush, and we got the boxes [donated] from Mr. Stone and we set it all up. Then we got all the bees in a tube, and what you have to do is you have to kind of shake them out of there and put them in and by that time they are used to the [new] queen," said Grade 7 student Kimberly Hedin.

"When we started it was really hard. [The bees] were just getting started and getting used to the place and finding flowers at the start was really hard. We had a bunch of dandelions by the school but they were dying," said Grade 8 student Logan Henry.

Students were given the option to sign up for the project and around 20 students were among the first group to work with the bees.

"[The students] are fully hands on. They are right there handling the bees and the bees will land on them on their suits. Through our education we've taught them not to freak out because slow is fast when it comes to beekeeping," said Kovachik.

For safety, the school has secured the hives in cages and students are only allowed inside while wearing full coverage protective suits. Kovachik says that though there is no way to be completely sure that no one will ever get attacked but so far none of his students have been stung.

Along with learning how to act around bees, this program incorporates many aspects of learning that students might have encountered in school and shows how they can be applied outside the classroom.

"They learn about the importance of bees to our food supply of the world. They learn how many plants and food sources are connected to pollination and it's quite significant," said Kovachik.

He also explained students incorporate math and science when learning about ratios of sugar to water and the effect of temperature when creating syrup to feed the bees, chemistry is added upon when they learn about the effects of temperature on the honey's viscosity, geography comes in when explaining why the bees are imported from New Zealand, and learning biology is essential in the explanation of the production of honey.

The students are rewarded for their hard work throughout the year when they learn how to collect the honey in the fall.

"Extruding the honey was probably the coolest experience I've ever had. It was really fun you had to be really delicate taking off the caps and spinning it and being careful because it's slippery," said seventh grader Zoey Purvis.

The extracted honey was jarred up and sold within the school to students and faculty. The proceeds will be used to buy a new colony and another hive or two for next year, so that the project can continue.

"I would say to people that they should get into bee keeping because it's really fun. It does take a lot of time so if you have a busy schedule it's probably not for you but if you have some time on your hands that you want to spend you can try beekeeping. It also helps the environment," said Hedin.

Safe drop program turned into kindness

What was supposed to be a marketing move became a

Harvester Fishing Net Company recently started receiving parcels for residents who can't be home to collect their Owner Sean Johnston was inspired by Winnipeg's Gorilla Jack Supplements that launched a safe drop program at the beginning of this month and will donate all cash donations to Siloam Mission.

"I thought that was a really good idea, especially in Selkirk. We are here all day anyway, we've got a giant warehouse," Johnston said.

"It doesn't cost us anything to say hey, thanks, leave the boxes here. It's easy."

More than 20,000 people have already seen their Facebook post announcing the safe drop location, and they have received requests from people from all over Selkirk and region. Their goal is not only to get people aware that the store is open to the public but also to give back to their commu-

"With all the fishing and hunting gear, and programs here, we are just trying to do as much in the community as we can to let people know we are here. They can always come to hang out, and the guys are always good to chat. With the parcels, it gives an opportunity to do one more thing to let people know we are here, come out and safely pick up the parcels," he said.

"We've got a big shelf in the back where we just put them on, and when people come, we just ask them for their ID, and away they go."

Harvester is asking that people donate a minimum of one dollar when they pick up their parcels. The money will be given to Our Daily Bread Selkirk, which sponsors the breakfast programs at the local schools.

"I was looking for something that would feed people here, and Our Daily Bread does a great soup kitchen for people, but they also sponsor the breakfast programs at the schools. There are a lot of kids that can't go to school with a full stomach, and that's really hard on kids. So I'm a big fan of these types of programs," Johnston added.

Although he cannot obligate anyone to donate, he expects people won't refuse to do so.

"In a community like Selkirk that's pretty charitable, I expect it's not going to be an issue for people to give us a dollar or two. The last person that booked the parcel here has donated $20 bucks. A lot of the rural places you can't get a

The store is open Monday to Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. For those wishing to get their parcels delivered to Harvester, add them to your shipping information. The address is Box 51, 506 Mercy Street, Selkirk, Manitoba, R1A 2B1. Johnston advises people to give them a heads up that something is coming.

Selkirk legion kicks off poppy drive

By Ligia Braidotti

We are getting closer to the time we dedicate to remember those who have bravely fought for our freedom.

With Remembrance Day approaching, the Selkirk Legion is kicking off its annual Poppy Drive on Oct. 25. Mayor Larry Johannson was the first to receive a poppy this year.

Wayne Bird, Poppy Fund officer at Legion 42, said the community is very supportive of their Poppy Drive, and it is continually seeking ways to help the veterans and personal care homes since they will eventually take care of "One of the things we did this year, we donated money to the hospital and to the personal care homes to buy equipment and things they need. We ask them to put in a wish list to us, and this year we gave to Red River Place, Tudor House and the hospital, a total of $24,000," Bird commented.

The poppy fund also assists the veteran's families and the legion. Through the community's donation, it has upgraded the washrooms and made the facility more accessible with wheelchair ramps that give access to

> BY DARELL OLSON, RESIDENT OF ST. ANDREW'S

In a democracy, voters in individual wards choose the councilor they want to represent them. Then voters as a whole choose their choice for mayor or head of council with a necessary selection of powers to bring focus and control to council.

However, when councilors decide that they require more power than the mayor and take steps to take those powers from the mayor, the system gets put on it's head. This is just wrong, and Google has a word for it: Anarchy. Look it up.

When symptoms of this sickness surface, they should be investigated and dealt with immediately. Whether it's apathy or lack of information, the residents of St. Andrew's don't seem too concerned that their choice for mayor is being turned into a powerless figure head, one resolution at a time. This is turning this council into a dysfunctional mess and is causing distress to the councilors who are actually trying to play by the rules. Any councilor not happy with their role in the process shouldn't be there!

There should be zero tolerance for false accusations and personality conflicts, not to mention down right belligerence to public attendees at times. When senior residents express their disgust at a meeting, they shouldn't be met with a councilor's look of disdain and smirking. Let's hope this train can get back on the rails soon and avoid drastic actions like those taking place in Teulon now.

Marine museum ships in halloween fright for 20 years

Halloween Haunt returns to Selkirk

By Katelyn Boulanger

The Marine Museum of Manitoba will be hosting it's 20th Halloween Haunt combining what they have learned from years of scaring to make this event the most bone chilling yet.

"It's a little of something for all ages for Halloween. We started it 20 years ago and basically we started it to have something for Halloween and for kids to celebrate within our area. There weren't really activities [going on at the museum at that time of year so] it was something to draw people in on our off season," said Shay Nordal, the manager of the Marine Museum.

The first event involved only one of the museum's ships, however, as the haunt grew, it expanded so that it could have options for all ages.

"We've kind of evolved because we wanted to do a good scare factor for adults but we still wanted to involve the families. The Keenora itself is very scary we don't recommend it for anyone 15 and under and as a matter of fact [children] 15 and under need an adult to go with them and it's at parental discretion. There are two other ships. The Lady Canadian is decorated with a kid's theme," said Nordal.

There are also other activities including colouring, games, and a heated ship, the Joe Simpson, which has concessions. Prairie Wildlife will also have an educational display in the Joe

The Marine Museum is a non-profit and hosts this event to raise funds to keep its ships maintained for the upcoming season.

"It's always ongoing. The ships do weather. It's an extreme amount that goes into painting them and we're short labour and we do what we can but it all goes into keeping the doors open so that we can tell the marine history of Selkirk and Lake Winnipeg," said Nordal.

The haunt also serves to attract newcomers to the museum and reminds residents of this interesting historical attraction in their area.

"We run May long weekend to September long weekend but we figured that we could draw people in for Halloween and they may be like 'Hey, we should come back here in the summer,' and it has worked that way," said Nordal.

On average, each night of the haunt 25 to 30 volunteers show up to help with tickets, concessions, security and of course scaring guests.

"We have a little bit of everything. We play on everyone's fears so we have everything from snakes to reptiles to an area with some tighter spaces, we have a butcher shop this year and Pennywise is a big feature so if you don't like clowns you could be in a little bit of trouble," Nordal said.

Nordal says that it's been really fun scaring people for the past 20 years.

"There are certain things that people are scared of, clowns is one of the big ones. The Keenora itself is scary. It's haunted on it's own. I've had things happen to me and then you turn the lights down and have a bunch of volunteers to scare people and it's just a great time," Nordal said.

This year you can attend the Halloween Haunt Oct. 25, 26, and 27 from 6 to 9 p.m. Tickets cost $12 and can only be purchased at the door with children 6 and under entering for free.

Local heroes help with mental health recovery

The Canadian Mental Health Association celebrates community supporters

By Ligia Braidotti

The Canadian Mental Health Association celebrated essential people who have significantly contributed to the healing of people struggling with their mental health in Selkirk.

On Oct. 9, family, friends, and supporters attended the CMHA's annual Heroes of Mental Health Awards held at the Selkirk United Church, where eight people received awards.

Tara Merlin, CMHA Interlake Eastern regional director, said having someone willing to accompany others through their recovery journey is crucial for a successful experience.

"In any community is good to recognize individuals who go the extra mile. In this case, it's very personal for a lot of people. Whoever they nominated has impacted them in a very specific and personal way and was usually part of how they worked through their recovery journey. For some people, it might be that they were in a very dark place where they were trying to end their life when (this person) came along in their life," she said. "And through that, these (supporters) help them through the steps of recognizing there is hope, and there is somewhere to go from here and maybe connect them to services."

CMHA is a national organization that promotes and supports mental health throughout the country through advocacy, education, research and services. Merlin explained that the organization is primarily stability based and that most of what they do is related to housing, food security, service navigation, advocacy, mediation.

"If you don't have those foundations, where do you go from there? If you're too worried about the basics, which most of us take for granted, how can you possibly work on your recovery? And so those fundamental are huge for people, and our community members want to recognize the people who helped them get to where they are today," she continued. "The reason some people in this room are still alive is because of the people that we recognized today."

The Heroes of Mental Health Award honours people into three categories: volunteer, family/friend, and organization/business. Harley Collee received the volunteer award, and Neill Stitt received the family/friend award. Both were not able to attend the ceremony but were praised by their nominators.

Rhonda Sitka from Manitoba Housing, Sara Dressler from Dynamic Investments and Cara Cayer and Kirby Hintz from Selkirk Support Centre received the organization/business

Sharon Palz-Stewart named her sister Susan Suppes and brother-in-law Garth who also received the family/ friend award.

Susan advocated for Palz-Stewart when she was not able to speak for herself. Palz-Stewart said she feels stronger because of her sister and brother-in-law's support.

"You have been strong for me when I was weak, and now I am strong because of you," she said during her speech, delivered by

Tigers tame Thunder to end regular season

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Thunder have beaten up a lot of teams in their two seasons as part of the Rural Manitoba Football League.

But it was the Thunder that took one on the chin last Sunday.

In a matchup between the RMFL's top two teams, it was the Swan Valley Tigers that took home bragging rights after defeating the Interlake Thunder 43-17.

"We lost to a really good football club," said Thunder head coach Mitch Obach. "It was a game that could have gone either way going into it. They have been good all year and we were looking forward to it but it didn't go the way we wanted it to and that's why we play the games, I guess."

Interlake trailed 21-7 at the half and had some real good drives in the second half but failed to punch it in.

"It was one of those days were we didn't capitalize on our opportunities and they made us pay for it because they're a good football team," Obach admitted.

Interlake quarterback Josh Charison scored on a three-yard run while running back Brady DeLaroque scored on a 13-yard scamper.

Karsen Karish hauled in a two-point conversion on a pass from Charison.

With the win, Swan Valley improved to 7-0 while Interlake ended its regular season with a 6-1 record.

On Oct. 15, the Thunder rolled to an impressive 55-0 victory over the Dauphin Clippers.

Charison had a great day, completing nine of 13 passes for 179 yards and four touchdowns.

Carter Fuerst hauled in two of those TDS while deLaroque and Karish also had catches for majors.

DeLaoque had a game-high 88 yards in the air and also rushed for 126 yards, also the most in the contest.

Interlake's rushing touchdowns were scored by Athon Nadon, Fuerst, and Jaxon Pillon.

Eric Zotter also returned an interception for a touchdown.

Zotter, Aden McLean and Benjamin Olafson each finished the game with nine tackles.

Interlake will now host the Southwest Sabres in a semifinal playoff game this Saturday at 2 p.m. in Stone-

"It's going to be a test, for sure," Obach said. "They're a tough team and we already knew that going in. They're a good football team with some dangerous weapons and we're going to have to bring our best football to take them, for sure."

Royal girls improve their league record to 3-0

By Brian Bowman

For a squad that almost did not ice a team this season, the Selkirk Royals' girls' hockey team is off to an outstanding start.

Selkirk defeated the Sanford Sabres 3-2 on Monday in Winnipeg Women's High School Hockey League action at the Rec Complex.

The victory improved Selkirk's record to 3-0 in the CTV Division 1 standings.

"It was unexpected but we're very happy with the results," said Royals' head coach Kelly Mendrun after Monday's game. "We lost a lot of girls this season. We have a lot of new players, a lot of rookies, but they're doing awesome."

Kiera Dawson scored the game winner early in the third period on a beautiful slap shot that went top shelf.

Camryn Horbaty had a first-period goal for Selkirk and then Bentley Donohoe tallied in the second. Both of those goals came on the power play.

Jayna Veldhuis and Nicole Romanuk replied for Sanford.

Morgan Baker made 45 saves for the win. She was very deservedly named the WWHSHL City Division I player of the week.

back there," Mendrun said. "She's stopping everything. She gets the first stop every time. She's been a big

Last Wednesday, the Royals edged the Shaftesbury Titans 3-2 at the Oak Bluff Arena.

Susan Halipchuk (nee Lowrie) January 22, 1964 - October 16, 2019

Peacefully, after a courageous battle with cancer, it is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Susan Halipchuk on October 16, 2019 at the age of 55 with her loved ones by her side.

Susan will be forever remembered by Wayne, her husband of 33 years; their children Andrew, Laura and Haleigh; her dad and mom, Peter and Margaret; brother Stephen (Denise); brother-in-law Jim (Barb); sisters-in-law Mary-Ellen (Roly) and Shauna; Godchildren Stephanie and Kurnin; as well as numerous nieces and nephews across Canada and a host of her aunts, uncles, and cousins in England, Sweden and the United States.

She is predeceased by Wayne's parents, Mike and Margaret (nee Hunt) and her brothers-in-law, Michael and Larry.

Susan was born on January 22, 1964 to Margaret and Peter

Lowrie in Darlington, England. The family had lived in Oshawa, Ontario and Montreal, Quebec before they found their home in Selkirk, Manitoba, where she found the love of her life, Wayne. She also loved to spend time with her family and friends and was always willing to lend a helping hand to anyone who needed it. Susan always had a smile on her face that could lighten up any room and was loved by everyone that knew her. Susan's desire to help others led her to a career in health services, which she worked in adamantly following her graduation from the Lord Selkirk Regional Comprehensive High School.

Dot passed away peacefully at her "home" Red River Place in the presence of her son Ben and daughter Valerie.

Dorothy was born to Hector and Lena Simpson in Neepawa MB, the second youngest of five children. She grew up on the family farm in Brookdale MB. She had fond memories of riding the sleigh, pulled by horses to her country school. She attended Normal School in Winnipeg in 1946, and after graduating at the age of 19, taught in Wellwood MB. Around that time she met and married Stan Cook on June 30, 1948. They were together until his passing

Dot was a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother and friend to many. We all have memories of her delicious meals, her knitted socks and sweaters and most of all the time she spent with us. She loved to walk and proudly hiked up her first mountain at age 73. For many years she and Stan had a yearly ski trip to Banff. She was brave enough to take up sailing with Stan even though she could barely swim. Most of all she loved to spend time with her grandchildren, who she was so proud of. Dorothy spent many years curling and golfing and was a long-time member of the Knoxettes.

Dorothy is survived by her son Ben (Susan) and daughters Valerie (Dan) and Donna and her grandchildren Jasmine, Silene (Sacha), Emily, David, Sophia and Oliver. Her brother, Charlie Simpson (Ruby) also survives her
