Volunteers gear up for hamper drive launch

By Lindsey Enns

Volunteers are gearing up to officially kick off this year's Selkirk Christmas Hamper Drive.

Starting Monday, Nov. 16, the hamper's headquarters, located at 202 Christie Ave. behind St. Francis Place, will start accepting donations Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monetary and food donations will be accepted until Dec. 7 and hampers will be delivered between Dec. 14 and 17.

Phone lines to register for a hamper will also open on Nov. 16. Those interested in more information can call either 204-481-3613 or 204-481-3614.

Selkirk's Our Daily Bread Soup Kitchen chair René Gauthier said this year they are hoping to collect both monetary and food donations.

"Monetary gives us a chance to buy different things," Gauthier said adding they are partnering with various local businesses and individuals interested in making a hamper and hand delivering it themselves come December. "We're hoping that they will deliver it to the person that they are making it for."

Tories push for RCMP probe into Tiger Dam purchases

By Austin Grabish

Mounties may be formally investigating a $5-million untendered purchase of flood-fighting equipment made by the province last year, the provincial Tories said last Wednesday.

Opposition Leader Brian Pallister said he's met with members of the RCMP's Federal and Serious Organized Crime Unit to discuss "irregularities" in the province's 2014 purchase of flood tubes branded as Tiger Dams

"We offered them the opportunity if they wanted documents to contact us, and they did," Pallister said.

The province has been under fire for months from the PCs, who allege Infrastructure and Transportation Minister Steve Ashton was in conflict when his department promised funding for flood tubes.

The party says Ashton was in a conflict because Peter Ginakes, Manitoba's sole Tiger Dam distributor, has donated money to Ashton's political campaigns in the past.

Tiger Dams have been used to fight floods in Selkirk, its surrounding areas, and the Peguis First Nation.

"We have been in contact with people who have told us that there are very real irregularities that have gone on in the government's purchase of this flood-fighting equipment going right back to 2009," Pallister said.

Manitoba Infrastructure and Transportation Minister Steve Ashton says he welcomes a probe by RCMP into the province's purchasing of Tiger Dams.

Pallister wouldn't disclose details of his party's meeting with RCMP, but said police are still in the early stages of a probe into the matter.

He claimed Mounties were already looking into the province's 2014 Tiger Dams purchase and the five years leading up to it when the PC's approached police.

RCMP spokesman Sgt. Bert Paquet confirmed the PCs met with Mounties, but wouldn't say if police have launched an investigation.

"We can tell you that we were contacted by officials from the Progressive Conservative Party and during the meeting that followed, we were provided with information that we are currently reviewing," Paquet said in a statement.

Ashton said he has yet to be contacted by RCMP, but would welcome a probe into the matter.

"I welcome any and all scrutiny in this."

He called Pallister's actions "reckless," and said the province had good intentions when it promised funding for flood tubes without going to tender.

"This was about protecting Manitobans in flood period," he said. "It takes 40 days (to go to tender). We basically acted to protect people, and that part I don't apologize for."

The 2014 Tiger Dam purchase is said to be the reason behind an internal caucus revolt last fall that saw five cabinet ministers resign in protest of Greg Selinger as premier.

The revolt came after a whistleblower complained to Manitoba's ombudsman, claiming attempts were made to dodge the funding approval process at the provincial Treasury Board, which is responsible for government spending.

Butcher shop owners weigh in on WHO report

Moderation is key when it comes to red and processed meats, Linda Frig says

By Brandon Logan

Reaction to the World Health Organization's announcement last Monday that consumption of processed and red meats can increase the risk of cancer has varied.

The International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) and the WHO's cancer agency evaluated the carcinogenicity in meat consumption and determined "each 50 gram portion of processed meat eaten daily increases the risk of colorectal cancer by 18 per cent."

"For an individual, the risk of developing colorectal cancer because of their consumption of processed meat remains small, but this risk increases with the amount of meat consumed," Dr. Kurt Straif. Head of the IARC Monographs Programme, said in a release. "In view of the large number of people who consume processed meat, the global impact on cancer incidence is of public health importance."

While the affect of the announcement has vet to be seen on a large scale, local butcher shop owners in Selkirk and the Interlake don't anticipate that it will hurt business.

"I don't think it's going to hurt business at all," said Dan Thorsteinson, owner of Thor's Meat and Groceries in Selkirk. "There's been lots of things that's happened with meat and food and, quite frankly, I think the people are tired of hearing about what's good and what's bad, and the scientists flipflopping on what is and what isn't good."

Linda Frig, owner of Frig's Natural Meats and More in West St. Paul said they haven't felt any negative impact from the report.

"I mean people that eat deli meat are going to keep eating deli meat," Frig said.

In terms of what meat and processed food definitions include, the WHO release said beef, veal, pork, lamb, mutton, horse and goat all fall under the meat category. Meanwhile, anything that has been transformed through smoking, fermentation, curing and salting to enhance flavour falls under the processed meats category.

Frig said moderation is key when it comes to enjoying red and processed meats without the ill effects.

"You see, it's everything in moderation. That's the thing. If you have bacon once a week, it's certainly not going to cause cancer," she said, noting the report likely won't stop people from eating it in excess either, pointing out the fact that thousands of people still smoke cigarettes.

The WHO did agree with Frig and said meats still have some nutritional value, even if they do have a risk of producing cancer.

"These findings further support current public health recommendations to limit intake of meat," Dr. Christopher Wild, Director of IARC, stated in the release. "At the same time, red meat has nutritional value. Therefore, these results are important in enabling governments and international regulatory agencies to conduct risk assessments, in order to balance the risks and benefits of eating red meat and processed meat and to provide the best possible dietary recommendations."

On a national level, the Canadian Cattlemen's Association also responded to the report.

"There are many theories why red and processed meat may be linked to cancer however it's important to note that no scientific consensus has been reached," a portion of their statement said. "Canadians hear a great deal about what foods we should eat and the perspective from the scientific community can change over time. Certainly cancer is a complex disease with many contributing factors including age, genetics, and lifestyle. As with so many aspects of daily life achieving the right balance for your individual circumstance is key and we continue to recommend to Canadian's that they follow the Government Canada's Food Guide."

At the end of the day, Thorsteinson believes his shop and other local ones will likely continue to thrive. He said if there is a kickback in meat sales, it'll be with bigger national chains rather than local shops.

"I think there's a trust factor in there," he said regarding local butchers. "We have local beef and local pork, so they're not raised on big feed lots and huge farms. They know it's from the area."

Province unveils tougher measures to combat zebra mussels

Staff

The province has finally put legislation that makes it illegal to transport zebra mussels into force.

On Monday, Conservation and Water Stewardship Minister Tom Nevakshonoff said new aquatic species legislation under the province's Water Protection Act had become law.

The legislation means it's now illegal under provincial law to possess, transport, or release invasive aquatic species in the province.

It requires anyone who finds an aquatic invasive species outside a water body where they are already known to exist, to report it to the province

And the legislation also requires boaters to stop at watercraft inspection stations.

The stations have been set up since last summer at docks across the province, but up until Monday boaters weren't required by law to stop.

"This legislation will add to a number of measures already in place specifically aimed at preventing the spread of zebra mussels," Nevakshonoff said. "There are many challenges to prevent the introduction and spread of aquatic invasive species in Manitoba, such as zebra mussels, and we need to continue to sharpen and strengthen the tools in place as well as the co-operation of all those who use our waters."

Zebra mussels are already in several parts of Lake Winnipeg and the Red River. The province wants boaters to clean, drain, and dry their watercrafts with hopes the mussels won't spread to other lakes.

The principles of clean, drain, dry and dispose are now law and must be completed when leaving any water body in Manitoba, Nevakshonoff said.

Fines for not complying with the new legislation start at $250 and reach as high as $100,000.

Anyone who sees a zebra mussel or another invasive species is asked take pictures and call 1-877-867-2470.

Gas pipeline repair work to wrap up before winter, Hydro says

By Brandon Logan

If you've driven down CIL Road 509 into Selkirk in recent weeks, you would have noticed some ongoing construction near the Red River.

According to Scott Powell, public affairs manager at Manitoba Hydro, crews are working on a preventative maintenance issue with the gas pipeline crossing the Red River into Selkirk.

"What we're doing is protecting a 12-inch diameter gas transmission pipeline that crosses the Red River south of Selkirk," Powell said.

Powell said the pipeline, which comes from Winnipeg, is an extremely important one for the city and the Interlake because it is the only gas supply to the region.

"The interesting thing is that gas supply line is the primary source (of gas) and actually the only gas supply to Selkirk and the communities north and west of the (Red) River," he explained, noting Gimli, Tuelon, Arborg and Riverton all use the line as well. "That's why it's an important pipe to maintain."

In terms of actual construction at the site, Powell said it's ongoing.

"What we do is part of that work is we add granular fill over the pipeline itself and on top of that we place protective concrete mats," he said. "So that work is being done as a depth cover of the river crossing that indicated what was on top of it over the years, a lot of it sort of wears away and the remaining cover was below CSA standards."

Powell added the decision to do these repairs ahead of winter was made to prevent further damage to the pipeline. He said the technology they're using is one they've used at a number of other locations, and that it's a less expensive option than replacing the entire river crossing.

When it comes to a final timeline for the project's completion, Powell anticipates it should be completed over the next two or three weeks.

Gauthier said last year nearly 50 hampers were delivered this way, however, he hopes to double that this year. In total, last year nearly 350 hampers were delivered, he said.

"As far as we're concerned, if they're asking for a hamper, we'll deliver a hamper," he said.

Gauthier added these are Christmas dinner hampers and are not meant to feed a family or an individual for a couple of days.

"Unfortunately in the past people had expected that we give them food for a whole week but technically it's for Christmas day," he said.

No perishable foods will be delivered with the hampers this year, but instead those registered will receive a voucher to pick up a turkey or chick-

"We have no facilities to keep everything frozen," he said.

Hampers will include classic Christmas dinner menu items including a turkey or chicken, potatoes and vegetables along with a toy for children.

Hamper drive volunteer fundraising co-ordinator Linda Rosser said the annual Christmas campaign serves a need in the community.

"There's lots of people that aren't well, there's lots of people unemployed, there's a lot of people that aren't capable of even using a stove and we want to be there for them and mostly for the children," Rosser said. "We want every child to have a Christmas gift and this was a great success last year."

In hopes of bringing in more donations this year, Rosser added they have been working on some new initiatives including partnering with Grandma Carol who has offered to do a 50/50 through her store. The newly minted Selkirk and District Kiwanis Club has also offered to help out with this year's Mug, Spud and Steak dinner fundraiser for the hamper and toy drive on Nov. 14 at 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Selkirk Legion. Tickets are $20 and the deadline to RSVP is Saturday, Nov. 7. Rosser said she expects the event will sell out but for tickets, call her directly at 204-482-5556.

Hamper drive volunteers will also be collecting monetary donations at Selkirk's Liquor Mart location on Nov. 20 and 21.

> introducing resources and will make it easier for those at risk to obtain protection orders, Attorney General Mackin-Gord tosh and Family Services Minister Kerri Irvin-Ross announced Monday.

"Recent events, including the tragic death of a young woman, have shown protective orders aren't always as accessible as they should be," Mackintosh said. "We want to hear from Manitobans who've had experience applying for protection orders. With their help and through consultations with police, justice officials and community groups, we will improve the process and better protect Manitobans who are at risk of family violence.'

Until Nov. 27, the Manitoba government will seek feedback through an online questionnaire from individuals who have applied, or helped someone else apply, for a protection order, Mackintosh said. The feedback will help guide future legislative changes to strengthen the Domestic Violence and Stalking Act, particularly the provisions related to issuing protection orders.

When someone needs help, it is essential they know where to get help as quickly as possible," Irvin-Ross said. "Recognizing that each person's situation and needs are different, we are expanding and strengthening the range of resources throughout the province."

The ministers also announced the consultations as part of Domestic Violence Prevention Month, launched at a meeting of the Family Violence Consortium of Manitoba.

The Manitoba government will provide the consortium with $50,000 to design and implement a public awareness campaign over the next year, focused on family violence prevention.

"Often the link to safety and to hope for individuals and families caught in the cycle of violence is the valuable work provided by the 37-member agencies of the Family Violence Consortium of Manitoba," said Glenda Dean, consortium co-chair. "We take this responsibility seriously."

The program will receive 55 new mobile phones this year, which will be made available at no cost to individuals at risk.

Santa Parade set to light up the streets Nov. 27

By Brandon Logan

Fundraising for the 10th annual Santa Parade of Lights was a success, according to Spirit of Christmas committee member Eva Hawryshko.

This year the committee held a Steak and Spud fundraiser at the Selkirk Golf and Country Club on Saturday, Oct. 24.

Hawryshko said more than 100 people bought tickets for the event, which was on par with past year's attendance.

"It went very good. It was a very good night," Hawryshko said. "We had approximately 140 people out for

In terms of the final dollar tally, the fundraising evening brought in just over $1,000, which will go a long ways towards this winter's parade.

Without the money, Hawryshko said the parade wouldn't be as good as it always is each year.

"What we use it for is we put banners on the hydro polls and we own our own flags. We also put lights in Queen's Park, Hydro Park and Veterans Park," she said, adding the decorations really enhance the Christmas feeling. "We decorate the big tree at the Presbyterian Church as well."

The fundraising is always on-going and is extremely important, said, noting light timers and lights seem to go missing or are damaged during the time they are up over the winter season.

Now that fundraising is in the books, focus is now turning to the actual parade, which is scheduled for Friday,

With November in full swing, float registration is expected to pick up in the next few weeks.

"They don't usually start signing up until the middle of the month, but last year we had about 49 or 50 floats,"

Hawryshko said. "So we're hoping to match it or get above it this year."

For those looking to register a float or donate to the Santa Parade of Lights, you can do both by calling Hawryshko at 204-482-3393 or by visiting Growing Years Family Resource Centre on Manitoba Avenue Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday.

This year's parade route will include Eveline Street from Heap Avenue and then end at Superior Avenue by the Selkirk Legion.

Parade start time is 7 p.m.

Red Run raises over $3K for youth literacy

By Brandon Logan

It was another successful year for the Red Run charity

While participation numbers were down this year, the event still managed to raise more than $3,000 towards Selkirk's Dolly Parton Library, which will provide children with new books to read monthly.

"Roughly 40 kids will end up getting books once a month, and that's 40 more who weren't getting it before," event coordinator Bonnie Peloski said. "Three-thousand dollars is lower than past years, but it's still $3,000 more than before."

"The run was awesome, we had the weather co-operate and the everybody seemed to be in a good mood."

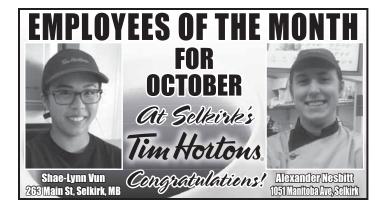

In terms of final results, Jordy Longbottom was the fastest in the five kilometre route, finishing with a time of 19:37. Taylor Arndt finished tops amongst women with a clocking

When it came to the 10 kilometre route, Cody Petrash ran away with the win. Petrash finished with a blistering time of 40:28. Line Karpish, who was the top female runner, came in with a time of 1:01:46.

And in the half marathon, Thomas Elskamp took home top spot with a final time of 1:37:39. Kevin Laliberte was second at 1:48:28 and Patrick Lemoine rounded out the podium at 1:51:38.

Elskamp dedicated the win to his sister-in-law, Betty, who lost her battle with cancer recently.

Set sold seach > LAKE WINNIPEG > ARNIE WEIDL

Fishing is finally back at Gimli pier

Welcome friends. About 10 minutes north of Lac du Bonnet there's a lake called The Ponds and I got a feeling the anglers there had a story for us.

Folks come here for the seeded trout, but this time I was also impressed to see that Manitoba Hydro, Fish Enhancement and others had gotten together with the Lac du Bonnet Wildlife Association to put in an aeration plant. Good for you guys.

On the wooden dock, sitting in a folding chair, in heavy blue coveralls and a thick black toque was a new friend Jim Spiers of Pinawa. We began to get acquainted and with Jim's ready smile and outgoing nature it wasn't long before he said he had a story for us.

Some five years ago he and some friends went fishing fairly far north in Big Sands Lake. They were in a boat when a thunder storm began to wet them down so they made for shore and the shelter of large evergreens. Hunkering down in the undergrowth, they heard a rustle and when turning about realized there was an addition to their group, namely a huge brown

They hastily clambered back into their boat as the bear, very close to the bow, observed their frantic jockeying with a deceptively casual manner-but he didn't leave. Now staring at them intensely he followed them along the shore as they moved onto the lake perhaps trying to decide whether they would make a good lunch or not. Jim's group made for deeper water quickly. Incidentally, Jim has been published in the UK's Pike and Preditor. Nicely

A few days back I visited with the folks angling on the Red upstream of Selkirk by the Manitoba Hydro steam plant. One of the fellows I had the pleasure of passing the time with was Stu Gordon from here in town. Stu had a great story for us.

He told of a time not long ago when a friend and he decided to play a trick on another buddy. They were fishing and when he wasn't looking they cut the guys fish line about 20' from the end then reeled it back up. When the hapless chum cast out his weight and hooks it broke free and plopped into the water right in front of him. He was not amused.

They fished the gear out of the water and as time passed that summer they never missed an opportunity to ask him if he was sure his line was OK. Later we got to talking about the jump off spot from intersection 204 and 509 where we winter anglers go down onto the river. Manitoba Hydro owns that land and is doing some work there. They have graded the slope to the river and put down some "quarter down". I mentioned to Stu that I had asked Scott Powell from Hydro if we were going to be able to use that access this winter. Scott said he would find out but given how good Manitoba Hydro has been to sport anglers throughout the province; I'd be surprised if we couldn't.

Well, finally, believe it or not the Gimli pier is open; there weren't any anglers on it last week when I was there so I went over to the landing for the commercial fishers and shot the breeze with the guys and gals as they came to the docks after their morning lift. Most of them are such characters, always forceful, always full of fun. I met a chap named Sam "Relic" Etter who is about as colorful as you can get. He's not too tall, a bit thin, with graying dark hair and the greatest gravelly voice you have ever heard. As he and his crew tossed their fish boxes into his truck I asked if he had any unusual experiences on the lake.

"I've got a thousand of them," he said, "once off Pelican Beach after a storm I caught a flight of stairs-brand new in my nets. I took them home and put them on one of my buildings. Now if the owner wants them back after talking to you, they know where to find me.'

Laughing, jumped into his truck and took

That's it till next week, bye

Manitoba Museum to receive $10M in upgrades over 3 years

Staff

The province is investing $10 million to rejuvenate the Manitoba Museum, Premier Greg Selinger announced recently.

"The Manitoba Museum is a cherished cultural asset that tells the story of our shared history and we support plans to improve and expand their wonderful facility," Selinger said. "We are excited to support the largest renewal in the history of the museum."

The museum plans to bring the Manitoba story forward through upgrades to the Orientation, Grasslands and Nonsuch Galleries, as well as the construction of a new Winnipeg Gallery, the premier said. The museum will work in partnership with the community to tell more of its stories and to display more significant artifacts including the internationally renowned Hudson's Bay Company Museum Collection.

"Museum visitors will be offered enhanced and contemporized stories of Manitoba with a strong focus on Indigenous people, immigration, first contact and trade, and the connection between people and nature," said Scott Craig, chair of the museum's board of governors.

The project will require three years to develop and install, Selinger said. Additional funding support for the $16-million proposal is expected to come from a private-sector capital campaign and other levels of government. The project is expected to begin in mid-2016 with the official opening planned for 2020 to coincide with Manitoba's 150th celebration, Hudson's Bay Company 350th anniversary and the museum's 50th anniversary.

> SELKIRK ON THE RECORD KEN HOWARD

Looking back at the MS Lord Selkirk

By Ken Howard

The Sept. 10, 2015 issue of the Selkirk Record reported crews had begun dismantling the embattled MS Lord Selkirk II.

What do we recall of this erstwhile celebrity of Red River and Lake Winnipeg motorboats in its prime time?

I'm indebted to Wikipedia for its excellent account, from which the following is adapted.

The passenger cruise ship M.S Lord Selkirk was built by Purvis Navcon/ Selkirk Machine Works at a cost of $1,509,565 and launched June 7, 1969.

At 176 feet long with a 41-foot beam, she was the largest and last cruise ship to be built between the Great Lakes and the Rockies. Built to replace the M.S. Keenora after it was decommissioned, she provided accommodation for 130 passengers and 40 crew, a game room, a dining room and lounge where guests could enjoy live entertainment, refrigerated and freezer cargo compartments and 120 tons of cargo fuel capacity. In 1970. Queen Elizabeth 11 and Edward Schreyer, Premier of Manitoba, were numbered among her prestigious

By the early 1970s the construction of new roads and air travel had greatly reduced the need for waterways freight and passenger service The focus was transferred to using the vessel for excursions and vacations. In early 1970s the provincial government purchased her and used her for the Venture Manitoba Tours through the 1978 season. In 1979 a group of investors led by Harold Anderson purchased and operated her to the 1982 season. In 1983 businessmen Jim Gauthier and Bill Harris purchased her and operated her until 1986 when she was purchased by Dr. Joseph Slogan of Selkirk, who ran the ship through the 1990 Red River navigation season. In 1991 extensive mechanical work was undertaken. However, she was idled following a decision to run the other two competing excursion companies, Paddlewheel Riverboats and River Rouge Tours as a joint venture... In the face of declining river traffic, the MS Lord Selkirk never sailed again.

In his book, "A Brief History of Most of the Vessels that Sailed on the Red and Assiniboine Rivers and Lake Winnipeg from 1859 to 1990," Ted Kristjanson recalled her ports of call were Grand Rapids, Berens River, Gull Harbour and Gimli.

She was retired in Selkirk slough in October 1990 following 17 years sailing. In July 2010 an international firm purchased her for scrap. On June 19, 2012 the M.S. Lord Selkirk caught fire and was declared a total loss.

The nature of M.S. Lord Selkirk's demise was not unprecedented. Steamboats which operated on the Red River and Lake Winnipeg from 1859 to the present, commonly met their doom by abandonment or as wreckages. The Manitoba Historical Society's MHS Resources Northern Prairie Steamboats chronicles many of these: The Alberta, built in 1904 was caught in the flood at Lockport Manitoba in 1916; the Alexandra, built in 1903, was wrecked in an electrical storm on Red River in 1907: the Alpha, built in 1873, was grounded at Sprucewood, Manitoba in 1885; the Assiniboine, built 1903, was crushed by ice on Cedar Lake, Manitoba in 1906: the Assiniboine, built in 1890. was dismantled at Winnipeg in 1900; the Bonnitoba, built in 1910, was crushed by ice near Winnipeg in 1913; the Cheyenne, built in 1873, was wrecked in Manitoba in 1884; the City of Selkirk built in 1893, was crushed by Red River ice in 1914; the City of Winnipeg, built in 1881, was wrecked in a storm off Long Point on Lake Winnipeg in 1881; the Grand Rapids, built in 1913, was broken up at Selkirk, Manitoba in1930, the Highlander, built in 1900, was dismantled at Norway House in 1910; the Lady of the Lake, built in 1906 was condemned at Selkirk, Manitoba in 1934.

In the Epilogue to his book, "Fire Canoes," Theodore Barris notes that every autumn, Red River waters unwittingly played host to tattered remains of more abandoned steamers.

Zebra mussels found at Selkirk Generating Station

By Brandon Logan

It's not just wildlife that's feeling the ill affects of zebra mussels, but also intake pipes attached to waterways.

According to Scott Powell, manager of public affairs for Manitoba Hydro, zebra mussels were found roughly a month ago on a screen that covers an intake pipe leading into Selkirk's generating station.

"This was the first time we actually found any," Powell said regarding mussels on the screen. "About a month ago we discovered two or three zebra mussels on an intake screen covering a pipe that draws water from the Red River to the generating station. We have been monitoring for zebra mussels since the late 1990s at our generating stations on the Winnipeg River and at Selkirk."

The aquatic invasive species have taken over the Red River, Lake Winnipeg and other waterways in Manitoba in recent years, which led the provincial government to double its investment in their fight against them early last week.

Along with a reduction in fish populations for recreational and commercial anglers and dead mussels washing up on Manitoba's iconic beaches, the province said the mussels negative affects also include "accumulation on boats and water-borne equipment and infrastructure like docks, intake pipes and hydro-power intakes."

While it is a slight concern that mussels are now being found on the intake pipe's screen at the generating station, Powell said Manitoba Hydro is taking all precautions to make sure none of the invasive species end up in equipment.

While they were on the intake screen, they have not been found on or in any operating equipment as of yet,"Powell said. "We are continuing to monitor for their presence, and have expanded our monitoring into other bodies of water, including Playgreen and Cedar lakes, working in close collaboration with Manitoba Conservation through the Coordinated Aquatic Monitoring Program (CAMP)."

Manitoba Hydro has also brought in a zebra mussel expert to notify them of high-risk areas where improvements can be made to keep the mussels away.

"We are also working with a consultant who specializes in zebra mussel control and remediation to identify high-risk locations and systems at each of our facilities, and then develop appropriate control measures for those systems," Powell added.

Conservation and Water Stewardship Minister Tom Nevakshonoff also noted the negative affects the invasive species can have not just on wildlife and people, but also industries like Manitoba Hydro.

"Based on experience in other places, we know that zebra mussels can have negative effects for industry, cottagers, beachgoers, boaters and fishers," Nevakshonoff said in a release. "We believe that the health of Lake Winnipeg is worth fighting for and with these investments, we will help Manitobans learn more about zebra mussels and what they can do to help prevent the spread in the province."

To report a zebra mussel or any other AIS from a location, take pictures and visit the website manitoba.ca/stopais or call 1-87-STOP AIS-0 (1-877-867-2470).

Province launches human trafficking hotline

By Austin Grabish

The province hopes a new hotline will be the lifeline for victims of sex trafficking that are looking to escape isolation and get help.

It launched a new toll-free hotline last week along with a public awareness campaign called "Buying Sex is Not a Sport," which is running in the weeks leading up to the Nov. 29 Grey Cup.

Attorney General Gord Mackintosh said the campaign is meant to discourage sexual exploitation and human trafficking that often increases in the days leading up to major sporting events like the Grey Cup.

"The public awareness campaign will discourage potential exploiters by focusing on the damage done to people trapped by human trafficking," Mackintosh said.

The new hotline was welcomed by Nova House executive director Anna Pazdzierski, who has worked with victims of human trafficking at the Selkirk-based shelter.

She said the announcement made her think of the last victim of sex trafficking Nova House took in about five years ago.

Pazdzierski said the victim was picked up in The Pas, brought to Winnipeg, where she was used, before escaping and finding refuge at Nova House.

"It was the most extreme case we've seen." Pazdzierski said. "She had been held and was very badly used." Pazdzierski said it might surprise many, but sex trafficking, which is also known as forced prostitution, has been an issue in Selkirk over the years.

"We do know of situations in Selkirk itself where young girls are being sold for sex to adult men in Selkirk," she said.

Pazdzierski said within the last year she knows of one underage girl with a developmental disability that was allegedly forced by her boyfriend to have sex with other men for money.

"We always think that kind of stuff doesn't happen in our hometown, but we know it does," she said.

Pazdzierski said with more people in town for the Grey Cup, she wouldn't be surprised if there was an increased demand for girls selling sex.

"I think around big events like the Grey Cup there's more people around that are looking for stuff that they might not be normally looking for." But the Winnipeg Working Group for Sex Workers' Rights disagrees.

In a press release sent to media, the group disputed the province's claim an increased demand for prostitution happens around the Grey Cup.

The group said the Buying Sex is Not a Sport campaign is "misguided," and wastes taxpayer dollars to address a problem that doesn't exist.

The number for the Winnipeg based 24-hour Human Trafficking Hotline is 1-844-333-2211.

How prepared are we for another flood?

and Mr. Hyde of rivers.

Meandering much of the time along its 877 kilometre course from Lake Traverse on the Minnesota and South Dakota border, north to Lake Winnipeg, it becomes a raging torrent that spills its banks when conditions are right.

The Mr. Hyde years were 1826, 1950, 1997, 2011 these were the Mr. Hyde years due to major flooding. Each saw lives lost, properties damaged, people displaced from their homes and a huge drain on provin-

Fighting floods, studying solutions, putting more prevention strategies into place isn't cheap. Although four flood control works — the Red River Floodway, Assiniboine River Diversion, Shellmouth Dam and Reservoir and a primary dike system — offer some protection, we should never grow complacent.

It's safe to say we'll see another flood. Conditions will come together to produce one: a wet fall, deep frost, a lot of snow, few thaws, a late spring and a fast melt. We need to be ready, but we're not.

Manitoba's current government has announced its 2015 Individual Flood Protection Initiative, a program that will close March 31, 2020. Those who qualify may be eligible to have a private ring dike constructed, buildings raised on new foundations, or buildings moved out of flood-risk areas. Such measures will cost a lot and be a band-aid solution at best; they won't fix the cause of flooding. It doesn't have to be this way.

Other measures could solve the ongoing flood threat. They involve an outlay of money up-front, cooperation with our neighbors to the south and different equipment from what Manitoba now uses.

Fargo, North Dakota typically floods around April 3. Clearing the Red of that ice during the second week of March would mean an early release of water. Dropping the South Perimeter Bypass from 750 feet to 743 feet would allow for a greater volume of water in the floodway. This measure would need to be done annually at the beginning of each flood season. Alternately, a permanent floodgate, capable of being lifted, could be installed at the mouth of the floodway, which would let flood water flow into the diversion earlier than

The Red just might be the Dr. Jekyll it does now. An added advantage if the river still had ice would be that water could flow under the gate into the floodway. Expensive - yes but it would pay off in the long-term. Also crucial would be breaking up ice from Lockport to the opening of Lake Winnipeg, as well as sheets of ice on the lake itself.

The Assiniboine River is one of eight rivers that flow into the Red; like the Red, it overflows its banks when ice jams. By breaking up this ice from Winnipeg to Portage la Prairie after ice on the Red has been broken, water will flow more freely (and earlier) into the Red. To prepare the Red for this extra volume, the province needs to dredge the river's

These measures are doable — with the right equipment. The province uses Amphibex machines to cut through the ice. Great stock has been put in them, although they can break only 19 inches of ice at a top speed of half a kilometre per hour, compared to a 37-tonne Hovercraft which is capable of chopping 36-48 inches at a speed of 22.5 k.p.h. The Manitoba Government acknowledged the Hovercraft's advantage, but officials stated it was too expensive to rent one from Eastern Canada because of transportation costs. There is a way to bring one overland to Manitoba, but with the Province unwilling to follow up, use of the inferior Amphibex continues.

Dredging presents another deadlock. The province conceded that dredging shallow parts of the Red was possible, but said it was a federal responsibility for all river matters back to the provinces, with the exception of the Lockport dam.

Ideas about flood prevention presented over the years by concerned citizens in the know are left on the table and not given the attention most of them deserve.

I've done a lot of research on these measures, on my own time and with my own dime. If you would like to see a permanent solution, tell your MLA. Talk about fixing the root causes of flooding. It can be done, but we need to act now.

South Beach to host Reggie Leach book signing Sunday

Brokenhead Ojibway Nation and South Beach Casino and Resort are teaming up to host NHL legend Reggie Leach on Sunday, Nov. 8.

Leach, commonly referred to as "the rifle," will be at South Beach Casino from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. signing copies of his book entitled "The Riverton Rifle: Straight Shooting on Hockey and on Life."

Through his recollections, Leach's 216-page book traces his own story from humble beginnings to NHL stardom and follows his dramatic fall caused by drinking and his rebirth as a successful business and family man.

"We are happy to support Mr. Leach in this exciting journey he is about to embark on. He continues to score both on and off the ice, he is such an inspirational role model to both young and old, especially our youth," Brokenhead Ojibway Nation Chief Jim Bear said. "We wish him nothing but the best of luck and success with the launch of 'The Riverton Rifle.'"

Nicknamed the Riverton Rifle for his speed and deadly shooting skills, Leach relied on the support of his community to overcome a child-hood marked by poverty and to rise through the NHL ranks, playing for the Stanley Cup-winning 1975 Philadelphia Flyers.

Born in Riverton, Leach is most known for his time on the ice but has since become an inspirational speaker and a supporter of youth initiatives.

As a member of the infamous Broad Street Bullies-era Philadelphia Flyers, he set goalscoring records that still stand today. In his posthockey life, Leach is well known for steering aboriginal youth towards making positive life choices through his Shoot to Score hockey school, which he runs with his son Jamie. Leach is a proud member of the Berens River First Nation, and currently resides in Manitoulin Island, Ont.

Foundation gears up for 24-hour Giving Challenge

By Brandon Logan

The Selkirk and District Community Foundation is gearing up for its biggest fundraising day of the year.

On Saturday, Nov. 14, the foundation is hosting its second annual 24-hour Giving Challenge Day. While donations can be made online, foundation executive director Beverley Clegg said they are also having an open house at the Gaynor Family Regional Library.

Last year, the foundation helped raise $25,688 plus an additional $2,000 from the Winnipeg foundation.

"It's a provincial-wide challenge that the Winnipeg foundation, for the second year, has put out to rural communities across the province," Clegg said.

This year, the Thomas Sill Foundation is adding a new challenge for the foundation.

"If we raise $50,000, the Thomas Sill Foundation is going to give us $25,000," Clegg said. "We definitely want to take advantage of this opportunity."

All the money raised on Nov. 14 will go directly back to the local foundation's endowment fund, according to

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Selkirk resident Kit Muir, 20, has created a fund with the Selkirk and District Community Foundation ahead of the foundation's second annual 24-Hour Giving Challenge Day on Saturday, Nov. 14.

"It comes back to us into our community granting program. Last year we have out $165,000-plus in granting, so that money that was raised last year helped build our endowment funds," she said. "It provides our donors with an opportunity to give back to the community."

One fund some money from the day might go is to a new fund created by Selkirk resident Kit Muir.

Muir, 20, has travelled to 14 countries across the world and wants to help young people in the area experience art, culture and education through traveling. With that in mind, she kick started the Travel Kit Fund at the foundation this year by making a $2,000 donation with her family.

"I've been lucky enough to learn about different cultures, history, art and architecture in my travels and my hope is this fund will allow young people through their schools or nonprofit groups to apply for grants to help cover travel expenses," Muir said.

Clegg said it's funds like those that will benefit from the giving challenge donations on Nov. 14.

For those who want to donate, they can do so online by visiting endowmanitoba.ca and going to the Selkirk and District Community Foundation

The other option is to visit the open house at the library from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 14, and the foundation's team will walk you through the donation process.

Selkirk, Gimli welcome Noventis Credit Union iTMs

By Patricia Barrett

Noventis Credit Union is the first financial institution in Manitoba to install iTMs, or interactive Teller Machines in its branches.

You won't be interacting with a mere computer, though: iTMs have a live teller behind the glass, who can help customers with a range of financial services, including making cash deposits and withdrawals, paying bills, transferring funds, exchanging U.S. currency, booking appointments with staff and making RSP and TFSA deposits.

"It's a tool to forge connections with our members," said Adrienne Percy, manager of branding and communications at the Noventis branch and corporate office in Gimli. "It's for people who want to talk to someone."

In March the credit union launched its first iTM in Selkirk and opened another in Gimli a few weeks ago. If you forget your debit card at home, you can still use the iTM if you can show the teller identification and answer security questions.

A member wrote to the credit union to thank it for installing the machine.

"He had switched jackets and had no wallet," explained Percy. "He went into the Selkirk branch with no debit card but was able to conduct business, so it wasn't a wasted trip for him."

Among the many benefits of the machine are not having to wait in a long teller line, but still being able to talk to a real person. And when the branch is closed, the iTM is up and running between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. It also allows customers to withdraw more cash than the ATM.

The machine is housed in its own private, glassed-in cubicle that's located in the foyer across from the ATM.

Gimli resident Conrad Kerasted was in the branch Wednesday. He said he prefers dealing with the tellers rather than with a machine. But after Percy explained the concept of the iTM, Kerasted was curious.

With a simple press of the iTM's 'Start' button, Kerasted was instantly connected with Jason Gevoga, a Noventis customer service representative.

Gevoga took Kerasted through a tour of the service, explaining how it could serve Kerasted's unique financial needs, as well as being available for an extended period of time in the evening.

"It sounds really good," said Kerasted.

Noventis has 11 locations across the province, including branches in Arborg, Ashern, Eriksdale, Fisher Branch, Riverton and Winnipeg Beach. At the beginning of October, it merged with Starbuck Credit Union and Headingly Credit Union.

"IT'S A TOOL TO FORGE CONNECTIONS WITH OUR MEMBERS."

"One of our core values is being connected with the community we live in," said Percy. "It's part of our organizational DNA."

In 2014, Noventis gave more than $170,000 to community projects such as school playgrounds and breakfast programs, Riverton's Friendship Centre programs, Moosehorn's community club, a new roof for the Ashern arena, a new day care in Arborg and a Sno Coach Ambulance, according to its 2014 Annual Report.

Because the iTM has proven so popular in Selkirk, attracting patrons from across its member regions, Noventis may install them in other branches.

"We haven't ruled out where we're going with it," said Kevin McKnight, chief executive officer of Noventis. "We're always analyzing where we want to go next."

Once people become familiar with Gimli's iTM, he expects usage will mushroom.

"They may be apprehensive to try it out because it's new technology," said McKnight. "But it's very user-friendly."

All age groups have responded favourably to the iTM, including seniors who like personal contact, he said. For people who aren't members, Noventis will provide them with a demonstration. That got the attention of other credit unions, which have sent representatives out to Selkirk to see how it works.

"To have this technology and these services in smaller communities," said Percy, "really shows an innovative spirit."

Noventis may have started out "humbly," she said, but it has become "the little credit union that could."

The iTM can serve only Noventis credit union members. There is no fee to access the machine. For more information about its services, visit the Noventis website at noventis.ca/personal/interactive-teller-machine-itm.

St. Laurent resident wins big with Dream Lottery 4 Kids

By Jeff Ward

No one ever thinks they'll win the lottery, but many play to experience that moment of elation if their numbers are called. And for one St. Laurent resident that moment is one she'll never forget.

Karen Coutu of St. Laurent had her ticket number 00179 picked last Thursday, which won her the grand prize in the 2015 Dream Lottery 4 Kids. Coutu has her choice of one of four luxury homes in Winnipeg or the cash prize of $1,025,000. The news of her win, which she received via phone call from the St. Boniface Hospital Foundation and Children's Hospital Foundation last week, ironically came while she was paying some bills, and still to this moment is hard to believe.

"I honestly still don't believe it myself, it hasn't all sunk in yet," said Coutu, who celebrated the win with her husband Victor and mentioned that she's leaning towards taking the cash over the home.

"My husband and I have worked hard our entire lives. We've struggled sometimes and even now that we're retired we struggle a bit. We've never really won anything in our lives."

The thought of one day waking up and becoming a millionaire is what drives most people to buy lottery tickets, and that thought is certainly a big factor in the purchase of this particular golden ticket. But for Coutu, the purchase is predicated on her desire to give towards a cause she believes in as well.

In 2005 her granddaughter, Ryan Christine, passed away at 15 days old and that experience has left an indelible mark on her and her family. Coutu has given what she could to any cause for the Children's Hospital, donating money during Christmas time in her granddaughter's name and buying these lottery tickets when they are available.

"You certainly buy the ticket hoping you're going to win, but we never thought we would. The only thing I know for sure is that we're going to help out our daughters with some of the money and also put some away for our six grandkids. All I ever want to do is help my family," said Coutu.

Both Coutu and her husband have been living in St. Laurent since 2005 and love their home. Moving to Winnipeg and into a luxury house isn't their idea of fun, and they've built a life in the small Interlake community that's more important to them. Victor Coutu drove the Headstart bus after a construction accident left him unable to return to work. Karen, made a career working for the Manitoba Metis Federation and only retired a few years ago. These roots are important to them, and with the money they can spread around their good fortune to their family.

Coutu mentioned that her husband would like a new truck, although he doesn't want a brand new one, just one better than the old one he currently drives. She also mentioned that they plan to take a vacation and get away for a bit maybe to Grand Forks. Some of her neighbours have been playfully teasing her over her choice of lottery winning vacation destinations.

Even with her newfound wealth, Coutu plans to still purchase a ticket to next year's lottery because as she puts it, "anything to do with the Children's Hospital, I'll support."

New EMS station to be built in St. Laurent

Construction for a new emergency medical services facility in St. Laurent is now underway, Manitoba Health Minister Sharon Blady announced last week.

The new facility, which is $680,000, will have space for an ambulance and an attached crew area that includes a multi-purpose room, kitchen space and bathroom, according to a provincial press release.

"This new facility will also provide area paramedics with employment opportunities closer to home in the St. Laurent area," Blady stated in a release

Construction for the facility is tentatively expected to be wrapped up early in the New Year, according to Blady.

Comp teacher named Aboriginal Educator of the Month

For Jacqueline Bercier, being a Métis high school student in the early 90s wasn't easy.

"I remember when I went to school here there wasn't really an area for us," Bercier said while sitting inside the Comp last Thursday where she graduated high school in 1994. "We weren't really reflected in the school

"It was hurtful to feel like I didn't fit

Bercier is now the Comp's Aboriginal Student Centre teacher and runs a transition program specifically for First Nation and Métis students, which helps introduce cultural literacy into the classroom. The program also monitors how students are doing academically as well as offers cultural, academic and counselling supports for all First Nation and Métis students.

Bercier was also recently named Manitoba's Aboriginal Educator of the Month in September and is now featured on the province's website serves to showcase aboriginal educators across Manitoba. Bercier said she believes she's the first teacher in Selkirk to be nominated and recognized in this category.

"Lord Selkirk School Division is extremely proud of Ms. Bercier's recognition as Aboriginal Educator of the Month for September," LSSD Supt. Scott Kwasnitza said. "She is a caring, empathetic teacher who is a wonderful leader and role model for the students and staff at Lord Selkirk Regional Comprehensive Secondary School."

Bercier said over the years positive changes have been made to help ensure indigenous students succeed and stay in school.

"Our whole goal is to make sure they stay here," she said. "We always need to make sure our students feel safe and welcome here."

Now that the province mandates schools to include aboriginal perspectives in all curriculums, Bercier said she works alongside other teachers to ensure they are able to deliver those lessons and teachings.

This year Bercier said she's switching her focus to teaching staff and students more about the residential school era following the release of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's report in June.

"It's about bringing those lessons to our teaching staff too so that they realize they definitely have students in their rooms that have been affected by this," she said.

Gov't invests $3M, adds 50 teachers to keep class sizes small

The province is investing $3 million in new funding to hire more than 50 new teachers as part of its kindergarten to Grade 3 class size initiative.

"With smaller classes, teachers have an increased opportunity to work with students to meet their individual needs," Education and Advanced Learning Minister James Allum said in a release last Tuesday. "As a result, students get the attention they need to establish solid foundational skills and excel academically throughout their school years and later on in life."

Although the Lord Selkirk School Division has received some funding as part of the province's class size initiative, they are not receiving any of this new funding, Supt. Scott Kwasnitza told the Record.

Kwasnitza added as of Sept. 30, 83 per cent of their K-3 classes had 20 students or less.

"The target goal for September 2017, as determined by the province, is 90 per cent,"he said. "Lord Selkirk School Division is on track to meet that goal."

In 2011, the province announced it would provide new supports to enable school divisions to cap kindergarten to Grade 3 classrooms at 20 students by September 2017. This investment brings funding for smaller classes to a total of $13 million for the 2015-16 year, Allum said.

"Smaller classes enrich students' experiences in school, and we're pleased the Manitoba government is providing these supports for teachers and schools," said Naomi Kruse, Manitoba Association of Parent Councils executive director. "This investment will help to ensure we can continue working toward a goal of providing all children in Manitoba with access to rich educational experiences."

Partnering with school divisions, more than 382 additional teachers have been hired since 2011 to create smaller classes across the province, Allum said.

"Winnipeg School Division has made a concentrated effort to implement the smaller classes initiative before the 2017 deadline," said Mark Wasyliw, chair of the Winnipeg School Division board of trustees. "As of this September, over 54 per cent of WSD kindergarten to Grade 3 classes are already 20 or fewer students. Today's announcement will help us continue our efforts to establish smaller classes for our youngest students."

The loss of HMCS St. Croix and Gordon Berrisford

The key battle of the Second World War was the battle fought at sea in the North Atlantic. It was the longest as well — lasting from the opening salvos in September 1939 to last shots fired in May 1945. Success in the Battle of the Atlantic was essential to the allied victory in the war. Canada and Canadian sailors, many of which were from Manitoba, played a crucial role in that battle and at some tragic cost.

The role of the navy was to escort convoys of merchant ship with their valuable cargos of war martials across the North Atlantic. A Manitoba company, Paterson Global Food, formerly known as Paterson Grain, made their fleet of ships available to Canada for war service. Twelve Paterson ships and 70 members of their crews were lost during the Battle of the Atlantic.

On Remembrance Day in Selkirk people pause to remember their family members and friends who lost their lives in war. On the Selkirk Cenotaph is the name of a 19-year-old Ordinary Seaman, Gordon Berrisford. He lost his life when HMCS St. Croix was sunk by U-305 in the North Atlantic, 600 miles east of Newfoundland on

Pruden Ave. public hearing set for Nov. 10 in St. Andrews

A public hearing in St. Andrews will give residents the chance to raise concerns over the re-zoning of a small street on the edge of the municipality, which residents fear could be the start of a trend to have smaller lots in the Council wants to re-zone Pruden Avenue, which sits between Highway 9 and River Road, so single-family homes can be built on the street.

However, the amendment that would make that happen has been packed into one re-zoning bylaw that would allows homes to be developed in the new zone on smaller acres of land.

St. Andrews Mayor George Pike said some property owners with grandfather properties on Pruden Avenue want to have residential family homes on smaller lots, but can't until the amendment is made.

Pike said while he's heard concerns from residents over the bylaw, it's only meant to allow change on Pruden Ave., and not other areas in St. Andrews.

"Some people got the idea that we're doing this throughout the municipality," he said.

St. Andrews resident Karen McKenzie doesn't live on Pruden Avenue, but will be opposing the bylaw at the

Expo aims to support inclusive employment

Community Living Selkirk and other local business leaders in Selkirk were in Winnipeg late last month for the EmployABILITY Expo.

Community Living's Cheryle Bacon said the expo on Oct. 21 focused on inclusive employment and why hiring people with disabilities can increase business productivity.

The keynote speaker at the event was Mark Wafer. The Torontonian owns six Tim Hortons and has hired 107 people with disabilities. Currently, of his 250-employee workforce, his stores employ 46 people with disabilities.

"A lot of the information he provided to the business community was the value of supporting hiring people with a disability," Bacon said. "He gave personal stories of individual people who he's hired who have actually increase productivity in different areas

Inclusive employment is an issue Community Living Selkirk is working

Within the community alone, Bacon noted Canadian Tire, Wal-Mart and Safeway have all hired people with disabilities, and two of the three organizations attended the employABIL-ITY EXPO as well.

These expos, she added, are helping to reduce the misconceptions of hiring people with disabilities.

"The biggest misconception is that it would be that they would be counterproductive to the business, and they would cost the business money and time as opposed to actually be valuable," Bacon explained.

In fact, it's the complete opposite Bacon argues. Instead of being a negative, hiring people with disabilities has the potential to improve your business on many levels, along with providing the disabled with value.

"It is better for businesses and it's adding more value to the employers. Not only that, but you're adding value to inclusive employment and it adds value to the lives of people with intellectual disabilities," she said. "You're providing them a valuable experience within their community."

That's why Community Living Selkirk continues to work with businesses in town to hire more disabled workers. They also offer help for employers as they work to get their new employees acclimated to the job.

"We're willing to partner to give employers a little extra help in making adaptations that might be necessary, so a simple adaptation can accommodate someone with a disability."

Local teacher humbled to receive Rotary Vocational Service Award

By Lindsey Enns

The Rotary Club of Selkirk has taken it upon themselves to recognize a popular teacher among students at the Comp.

During their Rotary meeting on Oct. 26, Lord Selkirk School Division board chair Jean Oliver presented Kevin Lopuck, the Comp's social studies department head, with a Rotary Vocational Service Award for outstanding teaching.

"I was completely shocked," Lopuck said about receiving the award, adding he attended the meeting not knowing he would be a part of it. "This was a complete and total surprise."

Lopuck was recognized for his global issues class, which he teaches in both English and French, along with helping the local rotary club out with the many student enrichment opportunities they offer.

"Kevin is passionate about history," Oliver said. "He has been an organizer, a leader and chaperone on numerous European tours that the students at the Comp have experienced.

"In the school year 2016-17 he will be taking a group of students to participate in the 2017 100th anniversary celebration at Vimy Ridge."

Lopuck, who has been teaching at the Comp since 2001, said although it's nice to be recognized, he credits his students for putting in all of the hard work.

"They're the ones doing the heavy lifting, they're the ones who are our future and they're the ones who are going to change the world for the better and I'm just there as a guide," he said. "Coming into my classroom everyday and teaching a subject like global issues, I get to interact with kids who quite literally want to change the world and make the world a better place for everyone."

Lopuck added the City of Selkirk and surrounding areas should be proud of the work local Rotarians do and how they support local students.

"I think you would be hard pressed to find another rotary club in Manitoba that does as much as ours does when it comes to enriching our youth."

Comp band program not just about the music

'You're learning to be a better person,' student says

By Lindsey Enns

For the dozens of students enrolled in the Comp's band program, it's about so much more than just making music.

Grade 12 student Amanda Allardice, who started playing violin when she was six, credits the Comp's band program for making her a better person.

"So many people are completely changed, especially by this program," Allardice said in between band practice late last month at the Comp. "It's not just about the music all of the "You're learning to be a better person and they're just using music to teach you that.'

With a focus on community and connectedness, the Comp's music department head, Michael Brandon, said the program has been attracting more and more students in recent years. Over the last six years, the program's enrollment has grown by more than 20 per cent, he said. Currently, 120 students from grades 10 through 12 are enrolled in the school's band program, which also works corroboratively with drama and choir instructors and students.

"We're just starting to bust out of the room a little bit in some of the larger ensembles," Brandon said. "We have good problems.

"We're growing, the space isn't quite big enough but we're managing."

Students being invited to perform in both Winnipeg and Brandon has also become a newer part of the program, Brandon said.

"Which is very flattering," he said, adding this will be their second year attending the Rocky Mountain Music Festival in Banff, Alb.

Brandon added bringing music instructor and working composer Kenley Kristofferson on board has also breathed new energy into the pro-

"When we tell kids this is a life-long endeavour, that's real," Kristofferson said. "We're all working, we're doing our thing and it's good for the kids to see that it doesn't end in Grade 12."

Besides teaching students how to pick up an instrument and play, Kenley said they also try to connect with them on an emotional level.

"We focus a lot on the whole being ... they're not just a bum in a chair, they're not just another clarinet on the roster," he said. "In the arts you have to be vulnerable.'

Creating a comfortable environment for students to open up is what Grade 12 band student Sam Harrison said helped him make some positive personal changes.

"It really changed me," Harrison said referring to the program. "Just being in the band program, I've looked at things differently, just being a better human being.

"This whole room is accepting."

Although Allardice admits she plans to study medicine after high school, she said music will always be a part of her life.

"Music will always be something that I do," she said, adding she encourages other students to consider enrolling in the Comp's band program. "Just try it out."

Despite a growing lack of space, Brandon said "there's room for everybody," adding students can decide how much they want to put into their music.

Royals red-hot in hockey action

The Selkirk Royals are proving to be a dominant team in the Winnipeg Free Press Division this season.

Selkirk is ripping up the Winnipeg Women's High School Hockey League's second division - posting a league-best 6-1 record - this season.

"We have a great group of girls assembled this year," said Royals' head coach Noah Cain in an email. "There's a great feel in the room and they've been a blast to coach so far.

"We've announced Alyssa Kaoukis as our captain. She's great and has been a stalwart back there on the point but I can honestly say we have as many leaders on this team as we have girls in the room."

The Royals won both of their games last week in convincing fashion shutting out the Glenlawn Collegiate Lions 5-0 on Oct. 27 and then blasting the SJR Eagles 8-2 the following day.

In the lopsided win over SJR, Selkirk scored three goals in the opening period, one in the second, and four more in the third.

Kaitlyn Seed scored three of those goals and added an assist while Mary Ryder had a goal and three assists. Seed has been very good up front for Selkirk this season.

"Katie's been great for us this year and a lot of her goals are a result of her toughness," Cain said. "She consistently wins one-on-one battles against players who are more than half a foot taller than her. She goes hard to the net and mucks it up in the corners."

Also having multiple-point games against SJR were Courtney Sorokopud-Jones (goal, two assists), Mckenzie Pelletier (goal, assist), Lilly Hoydalo (two assists) and Jenna Truthwaite (two assists).

Kyra Delaronde and Kinnon Lycan also scored for Selkirk.

"We played well for the most part," Cain said. "We had some defensive lapses in the second period. I think we were a little fatigued being on the tail end of a back-to-back but it's hard to be unhappy after an 8-2 win.

"We buckled down in the third and got back to playing our game."

The Royals outshot the last-place Eagles 24-7. Emma Gillespie earned the win in goal.

Against Glenlawn, Seed and Sorokopud-Jones each scored twice while Cassidy Ilchena also tallied.

Rebecca Zdrill made seven saves for the easy shutout.

The Royals have now outscored their opponents 44-11 through its first seven games. That is, by far, the most goals scored in their division.

"Our whole team's playing smart, simple, tough hockey and we're being rewarded with wins," Cain said. 'We're not spending too much time thinking about our record, though. Our focus is playing the right way every game and, hopefully, Katie, Courtney, Jenna and the rest of our team keeps finding the back of the net like they are now.'

this past Tuesday (no score was available) and then the Royals will play the West Kildonan Wolverines on Friday at Seven Oaks Arena in Winnipeg. Game time is 4 p.m.

In Winnipeg High School Hockey League action, the Royals improved to 4-0 on the season with a solid 3-2 home victory over the Kelvin Clippers in St. Andrews.

Auzzie Loewen and Wes Hoydalo scored second-period goals for Selkirk while Gordie Longbottom netted the eventual game winner in the third.

Selkirk's Harley Hoydalo had two assists.

Ben Giesbrecht and Cole Ferguson replied for Kelvin. Brady Hrymak earned the win in goal for the Royals.

Selkirk hosted SJR1 this past Tuesday and then visited the Stonewall Collegiate Rams the next day. No scores from either game were available at press time.

The Royals will then host the Oak Park Raiders next Tuesday in St. Andrews. Game time is 4:15 p.m.

Fishermen lose pair of KJHL weekend games

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Fishermen were never going to finish this Keystone Junior Hockey League season without a loss.

But after reeling off six consecutive wins to start the season, Selkirk lost a pair of Keystone Junior Hockey League games in less than 24 hours last weekend.

Selkirk was stopped 3-1 by the OCN Storm on Saturday evening and then was defeated 6-2 by the Peguis Juniors Sunday afternoon.

In the loss to the Juniors, Peguis scored four first-period goals to take a commanding 4-0 lead.

Shaquille Houle scored the first two goals of the game and then Keevan

Daniels-Webb and Devon Garson tallied to put the home side up 4-0 after 20 minutes.

Connor Spratt and Jeremy Pachkowsky scored for Selkirk in the second period while Theoren Spence replied for Peguis.

In the third, Waylon Neault closed out the game's scoring with his 11th goal of the season. He currently leads the KJHL in points with 20 through seven games.

Selkirk lost its first game of the season with the two-goal loss to OCN.

OCN's Devon Tobacco scored in both the second and third periods while Tyrel Buechert struck on the power play in the opening frame.

Drayton Mendrun finally put Selkirk on the board with a late goal, assisted by Pachkowsky.

The Fishermen, now 6-2, will be looking to get back into the win column this Friday when they host the North Winnipeg Satelites (1-5).

Selkirk will then host the St. Malo Warriors (3-2-0-2) on Tuesday. Both games have 7:30 p.m. starts.

Steelers fail to strike oil in Virden over the weekend

By Brian Bowmar

The Oil Capitals handed out more tricks than treats to the Selkirk Steelers during the third period of last Saturday's Halloween matchup in Virden.

Virden potted three unanswered goals in a 6:19 span in the third. Dylan Cusmano, Kyle Salaway and Mack Hardy (penalty shot) scored for Virden in the final frame.

Tanner Lewis and Salaway scored for the Oil Capitals in the first period but Selkirk tied the score at 2-2 with goals from Ty Kraus and Nathan Halvorsen early in the second period.

Virden's Jake Dudar scored the eventual gamewinning goal at 16:54 of the second period.

Last Friday, Virden defeated the Steelers 5-3 in Selkirk.

Mack Hardy, on the power play, and Tyler Kirkup scored for Virden in the first period and then the Oil Capitals increased their lead to 4-0 with goals from Derek Cross and Kirkup in the second period.

Trailing 4-0 in the third, Selkirk finally got some offensive production with three goals.

Selkirk's Dexter Kuczek, on the power play, and Virden's Tristen Cross traded goals early in the final period and then Dallas Starodub and Braden Lozinski tallied for the Steelers to close out the scoring.

Lozinski, an Archerwill, Sask. native, was named the game's third star.

On Oct. 27, the Steelers stopped the Dauphin Kings 5-3 – erasing a 2-0 second-period deficit – at the Selkirk Rec Complex.

Newly-acquired forward Cole McCartan had two goals and an assist in his first game with the Steelers after being traded to Selkirk from OCN.

Kraus had a goal and two assists for Selkirk while Brandon Bartley (shorthanded) and Riley Derlago also scored for Selkirk. Kraus currently leads Selkirk in points with 16 (eight goals, eight assists) through 13 games.

Derlago, named the Steelers' captain for this season just last week, iced the game with an empty-net goal with 57 seconds remaining in the third period.

Chance Thomas, Brandon Young, on the power play, and Oliver Lester scored for Dauphin.

Evan Robert made 31 saves for the win.

Selkirk (6-7) hosted second-place Winkler this past Tuesday but no score was available at press time. The Steelers will have the Steinbach Pistons come here Friday and then will travel to Winkler on Sunday.

Both games have 7:30 p.m. start times.

Royals spike their way to tourney win

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Royals junior varsity girls' volleyball team is peaking at just the right time heading into this Thursday's KPAC semifinal matchup.

Selkirk is on a high after winning their home tournament last Saturday, defeating the River East Kodiaks 2-0 by scores of 25-12 and 25-21 in the championship game.

"It was a great effort all (around) all weekend," said Royals' head coach Dylan Brook. "It took all 12 of us to win and they pulled through strong at the end, for sure."

Selkirk served outstanding against River East - often making the Kodiaks scramble - while the Royals also did an exceptional job blocking at the net.

To reach the final, Selkirk cruised to a solid 2-0 win over a tough St. Mary's Academy Flames squad. The Royals won 25-8 and 25-20.

"(Getting off to a good start) was huge," Brook stressed. "They're definitely one of our top rivals. We see them every tournament and we've kind of gone back and forth (with them). It was a nice relief to get that win over them, especially at this crucial time going into playoffs and provincials.'

In the quarter-finals, Selkirk downed Garden City 2-0 by scores of 25-12 and 25-15. Round-robin play saw Selkirk finish with a 6-2 record in sets.

All of the Royals played well during the tournament but Selkirk middle Kely Warmington stood out in the final and was named the Royals' MVP for that game.

"She was great at blocking and was hitting great out of the middle," Brook noted.

The Royals won't have too much time to celebrate their impressive tournament win, however, as they prepare for a KPAC semifinal matchup this Thursday (7:15 p.m.) at the Comp against a yet-to-be-decided opponent.

Selkirk, which finished in first place in KPAC with a 9-1 record, will play the winner of the No. 4 versus No. 5 matchup. Those two teams were not known at press time as a KPAC quarter-final was played this past Tuesday evening. The Royals have a couple of major goals to finish their season. And they are lofty ones.

"It's been a long season and a long road but we're peaking at the right time," Brook said. "We're ready to show what we got and they are two banners that we have our eyes on.

"The first one is KPAC and the second one is provincials. That's our goal."

Selkirk finishes fourth at St. Vital tournament

The Royals' Madi Prive smashes the ball between a pair of defenders during KPAC action Monday evening in Selkirk.

The Selkirk Royals had a chance to see how they compare against the top varsity girls' teams in the province at a St. Vital Invitational tournament last weekend.

And, after the last volleyball was spiked, it looks like the Royals fared pretty well.

Selkirk finished fourth overall after a very close 3-2 loss (25-23, 11-25, 25-20, 22-25, 21-19) to Brandon's Vincent Massey Vikings.

"(The tournament) had every top-ranked team, except for one, Portage," said Royals' cocoach Kyla Michalski. "It kind of had everyone there that will be in the provincial running."

Selkirk was relegated to the third-place game after losing 3-1 (25-20, 21-25, 25-19, 25-22) to Winnipeg's Vincent Massey Trojans.

Earlier in the playoffs, the Royals defeated the Dakota Lancers 3-0 (25-14, 25-11, 25-9) and the Glenlawn Lions 3-1 (25-13, 25-21, 26-28, 25-23).

In pool play, Selkirk struggled somewhat with a 3-4 record in sets to place third out of four

"The tournament started out a little bit slow for us in the first game Thursday night," Michalski admitted. "But the girls really turned it around and we started playing the kind of volleyball that Royals play.

"And we hadn't been playing that the last few

Royals' libero Lauren Weremy was outstanding last weekend on the defensive side and was deservedly named to the tournament all-star

'She was excellent for us last weekend," Michalski stressed. "She's been doing really well getting at balls that should be down but then, all of a sudden, they're back up there again."

Michalski feels the Royals are peaking at just the right time of their season. Selkirk finished its KPAC league in first place with a perfect 10-0 record after a win this past Monday.

Selkirk hopes to continue that success when they host a semifinal game this Tuesday.

Royals put scare in opponents at River East tourney

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Royals were in the Halloween spirit on Saturday, putting a major scare in their opponents at the River East junior varsity boys' volleyball tournament.

Selkirk captured the tournament title with an exciting 2-1 victory over their arch-rivals from Steinbach. The Royals lost the first set 25-12 but came back with wins of 25-16 and 15-10.

Selkirk reached the finals after sweeping the St. Paul's Crusaders 2-0 (25-13, 25-16) in the semifinal. In the quarter-finals, the Royals defeated Garden City 2-0 by scores of 26-24

In pool play, Selkirk was a perfect 6-0 in sets with 2-0 wins over Miles Mac (25-17, 25-22), Glenlawn (25-19, 25-11), and Kildonan East (25-14, 25-

The St. Andrews Community Club Invites proposals for a Facility and Arena Contractor/Employee

This is a twelve month contract position relating to the operation, maintenance and upkeep of the facilities, arena and grounds of the St. Andrews Community Club. Please enclose qualifications, related experience and expected remuneration. Every consideration will be given to local contractors, however only those most qualified for the position will proceed to the interview process.

Interested parties are asked to submit their proposals to staccoperations@shaw.ca by midnight on Nov 13, 2015.

The successful applicant will report to the Club Executive, and will perform a variety of duties relating to the operation and maintenance of the facilities and grounds (i.e. indoor and outdoor rinks, soccer and baseball fields, hall, dressing rooms, canteen area, bathrooms, grounds, etc.) including, but not limited to, installing, removing, marking and maintaining the indoor and outdoor ice surfaces, flooding, ice plant operation and maintenance, Zamboni operation, equipment maintenance, general building repair and maintenance (interior and exterior), grounds maintenance and upkeep (general landscaping, cleaning, grass cutting, snow shovelling, etc.), special event set up and take down and various custodial duties, with a focus on quality customer service and continuous improvement processes.

Work of this class involves a high degree of customer interaction and professionalism, strong organization skills and the ability to work independently or within a team environment to meet the operational needs of the facility, arena and grounds.

For further information or for site visits, please contact staccoperations@shaw.ca.

OBITUARY

Kenneth Robert Dalebozik 1963 - 2015

It is with deep sadness that we announce the sudden and peaceful passing of our beloved son, brother and uncle, Ken Dalebozik, on Thursday, October 29th, 2015.

Remaining to cherish Ken's memory are his parents, John and Erika Dalebozik; brother John Dalebozik (Debbie); sister Kristine Barnes (Sean); as well as nieces, Cheryl (Gabe), Leanne, Tara, Holly (Ernest), Kendall and nephew Mitchell. Ken will also be missed by many aunts, uncles, cousins, great nieces and nephews and friends. Ken was predeceased by his grandparents.

Ken was born in Selkirk, MB on July 13, 1963. He grew up on the family farm in the East Selkirk area, moving to Winnipeg as an adult. Ken had an enormous heart, loved deeply and laughed $contagiously. \ He\ enjoyed\ cars,\ hanging\ at\ the\ beach,\ fishing\ and\ being\ a\ handyman.\ Ken's\ life\ wasn't$ always peaceful, but it is a comfort to us all to know that he is at peace now.

"I know for certain that we never lose the people we love, even to death. They continue to participate in every act, thought and decision we make. Their love leaves an indelible imprint in our memories. We find comfort in knowing that our lives have been enriched by having shared their love." - Leo Buscaglia

Kenny, we will always love you...Mom and Dad xo

Funeral Services will be held in the Gilbart Funeral Chapel located at 309 Eveline Street in Selkirk, MB on Friday, November 6th at 11:00 a.m. with luncheon to follow.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to a charity of your choice.

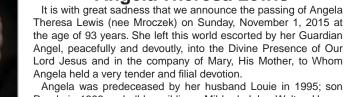

Gilbart Funeral Home, Selkirk in care of arrangements. www.gilbartfuneralhome.com

OBITUARY

Angela Theresa Lewis

Randy in 1993 and all her siblings. Mildred, John, Walter, Henry, Frank, Mike and Stan.

She leaves to mourn her children and grandchildren; son Ed (Margarete) of Montreal and children Melissa and Amber: son Mark (Jan) of Calgary and children Jennifer, Michael and Christina; son Rick (Lynn) of Winnipeg and children Sean and Cory; son Ray (Marian) of Selkirk and children Charlotte, Carson, Mitchell and Amanda; and only daughter Andi Lewis-Van Dyk (Mike) of Calgary and children Amanda and Michelle. She is survived by sisters-in-law Nellie Unik and Loretta Lewis both of Selkirk and many wonderful nieces, nephews and great-grandchildren.

Angela was a devout Catholic and a devoted wife and mother to six children. She worked side by side with her husband to raise their family and to build a successful business - Lewis Jewellers - in Beausejour. She was a long-term member of the Church choir and scripture reader and a pastpresident of the local chapter of the Catholic Women's League (CWL). Her beautiful smile and loving kindness will be forever in our hearts.

Our sincere appreciation goes out to Dr. Ramanna and the dedicated staff at Bow View Manor in Calgary, for their wonderful care and attention during Mom's stay.

A special thank you goes to Fr. Stan Gacek for his spiritual guidance and pastoral support, which he provided with tender and loving care. We are grateful to Gilbart Funeral Home for their excellent handling of the arrangements. The pallbearers will be Angela's sons, son-in-law and grandson.

Prayers will be held on Friday, November 6, 2015 at 7:00 p.m. in the Gilbart Funeral Home, Selkirk. The funeral Mass will be held on Saturday, November 7, 2015 at 11:00 a.m. at Notre Dame Catholic Church, Selkirk, with Fr. Stan Gacek officiating.

It was Angela's wish to be cremated following the traditional Church service with inurnment beside her husband and son in Notre Dame Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, we gratefully acknowledge Holy Mass intentions for Angela or a donation to the charity of your choice, in her name.
