Garage sale, family fun day fundraiser helps raise nearly $16K for Selkirk family

By Lindsey Enns

While resting in her mother's arms with a knitted pink toque covering her head, it wasn't difficult to see that even two-year-old Brenna Schellenberg was a little overwhelmed at the amount of people who showed up to support her and her family last Saturday.

When news spread that Brenna had been diagnosed with a rare form of brain cancer in late July, a group of dedicated friends of the Selkirk family wanted to do something to help.

Dozens of volunteers, local businesses and organizations banded together to collect donations and put on a garage sale and outdoor family fun day at Selkirk Memorial Hall last Saturday. The event helped raise just under $16,000 for the local family.

"It started out as a small yard sale and then it just built from there," one of the organizers Jackie Palmer said. "It's been amazing."

Doctors diagnosed Brenna with Medulloblastoma, a rare and aggressive form of brain tumour found in young children, on July 28.

The cancer has since spread to parts of Brenna's spine and she is currently receiving chemotherapy treatments at the Children's Hospital in Winnipeg.

Jason and Candace Schellenberg say the support they have been receiving from family, friends and the community has been "incredible."

"It's more than we ever could have imagined," Candace said while holding Brenna during last Saturday's event.

Community and area members came out in droves last Saturday to show their support, grab some lunch and look through garage sale items.

Among them was four-year-old Lily Porhownik of East Selkirk who said she hopes her friend Brenna gets better soon.

Porhownik's grandmother Melanie Shumilak said they know the Schellenberg family well and wanted to come out and show their support last Saturday.

"We came to support Brenna," Shumilak said, adding the young girl's diagnosis really hit home for her and her family. "Both my daughters have two year olds ... so we all know Brenna and it just makes us sick in our stomach.

"It's just very sad."

Looking around inside Memorial Hall last Saturday, Shumilak said the amount of support the family has received is "just amazing."

"I can't believe the quality of items that are here not just the quantity."

Thousands of donations including anything from clothing, furniture, books, electronics and toys were being collected at True North Motors for the last several weeks. It took a semi truck to bring all the donations to Memorial Hall for the event.

Candace said she wanted to thank everyone who showed up and helped make the event such a success.

"I can't believe how the community has come together to support our family in our time of need," she said. "Thank you for all the love and support we have received and the continued support.

"We can't thank people enough."

Candace said Brenna is doing"amazing" and is reacting to treatment better than they expected.

Last week the family was able to spend some time at home together before Brenna starts her next round of chemotherapy.

New Nova House set to open in January 2017

Local organization still looking to raise $250K for new facility

By Lindsey Enns

A new shelter for women and children escaping domestic violence nearly 17 years in the making will officially open its doors in January 2017.

Nova House Inc. executive director Anna Pazdzierski said they hope to host the grand opening of the their new 24-bed facility located along Clandeboye Avenue in Selkirk before Jan. 15, 2017 and will then welcome clients shortly afterwards.

The cost of their new building has now reached approximately $2.8 million, with Nova House receiving $1 million from Manitoba Housing, $500,000 from Jim and Betty Anne Gaynor, and the land and services have been donated by the City of Selkirk.

Nova House has had to fundraise and apply for grants to make up the remainder of the costs. They continue to fundraise for funds for the building as well as for things that will fill the shelter, such as furnishings and housewares.

Pazdzierski said fundraising for the new facility has been steady and they are currently about $250,000 away from reaching their $1.1 million goal.

So far Nova House has received donations from 23 service groups, 18 private citizens, 14 corporate sponsors, at least eight foundations, six major fundraisers, the federal, provincial and municipal governments, and a long list of other donors from across Canada.

"We have been so pleased with the fundraising we've received and everybody has been wonderful," she said.

Nova House supporters and donors were invited to take a tour of their current facility and visit the new building last Wednesday evening.

Although their new facility is still very much in the construction phase and the nearly 25 people along for the tour were unable to go inside,

BELOW RIGHT: Early childhood educator and support worker Donna Hayes, pictured right, talks about the children's program at Nova House during a tour last Wednesday evening.

Pazdzierski said she wanted to show them how the project is coming to fruition.

"The most important part of tonight is saying 'thank you' and showing people why their money was so needed and how much we appreciate it," she said following last week's tour.

Among the large group along for the tour was Selkirk MLA Alan Lagimodiere who said he is "very impressed" with the work Pazdzierski and others have been doing to help women escaping both physical and mental abuse.

"It's good to know that we have places now that these women can go to that they don't need to put up with this type of treatment," he said. "In this day and age it's unacceptable."

Pazdzierski said five years ago a tour of a shelter for domestic abuse victims would be unheard of.

"We were so concerned previously about keeping people safe and keeping things quiet and confidential, people didn't talk about domestic violence at all," she said. "We're finding to make changes we have to start talking about it, we have to bring it up from behind closed doors."

During the tour of their current facility, Pazdzierski didn't hold back while pointing out the many challenges the shelter faces while trying to help those in need.

Selkirk MLA Alan Lagimodiere was sworn in as the new Legislative Assistant to the Minister of Health last week and the first-term politician will now take on some new responsibilities in his first term in government.

Last Wednesday Lagimodiere joined Government of Manitoba Clerk of Executive Council Donna Miller at the Manitoba Legislature to take the oath of office as the Legislative Assistant to the Minister of Health, Seniors and Active Living.

After taking the oath of office Lagimodiere said he was "proud" to take on the role so early on in his political career.

Attempts to move 156-tonne ferry bound for Norway House fail

By Dave Baxter

Provincial workers tried three times to pull a new 156-tonne cable ferry into the water in Selkirk last week, but in the end the vessel just wouldn't budge.

Last Friday Manitoba Infrastructure reported the launch of the new 156-tonne cable ferry named Gilbert Laugher would happen from the riverside provincial maintenance yard in Selkirk.

A small crowd gathered near the site of the planned launch, with some even bringing lawn chairs to sit and watch, but those hoping to see a launch walked away disappointed.

In the afternoon Manitoba Infrastructure crews tried three times to pull the ferry into the water, but each time cables trying to pull the ferry broke and the vessel did not move one inch.

However, a provincial spokesman told the Record they were going to try to move it again late Tuesday afternoon but the outcome was not yet known by press deadline.

Manitoba Infrastructure marine project manager Barry Blair said the vessel is built differently than ones they have pulled in the past and that is why they could not get it to move with the equipment they had at the site.

"This ferry is quite a bit different than anything else we have worked with," Blair said, after the last failed attempt to move the ferry last Friday. The ferry will eventually head to the Norway House First Nation area, and Blair said it was built to work in cold temperatures, and that is why it wouldn't move.

"It's grade-D steel," he said. "It's steel that's very suited for low temperatures and ice. It's heavier than anything else we have worked with." Once it gets into the water in the Selkirk Slough area, the plan is for it to stay in Selkirk for the winter and make its way to Norway House in the spring of 2017.

Blair said they must now figure out when to make another attempt at moving it and what equipment they will need to make sure it moves.

"Right now that is being determined," he said. "We may try again next week if we can reschedule another job that we already have planned.

"We want it in and the sooner the better."

The province said the $3.1-million ferry will replace the "aging" C.F. James Apetagon, which has been in service since 1977.

The Apetagon will continue to see limited use at another undetermined location, the province said.

The vessel's name honours Gilbert Sandy Laugher, who was born in Norway House in 1928.

Working around lake vessels much of his life, Laugher worked as a respected, long-service government ferry operator, until he retired in late 1993.

Gilbert passed away in 2008.

Cybertip.ca ad campaign aims to catch online child predators

Staff

Monday marked the fifth annual awareness day for a Canada-wide tipline that allows the public to report the online sexual exploitation of children.

Cybertip.ca, which is operated by the Canadian Centre for Child Protection, released facts about their service as well as disturbing facts about the online sexual exploitation of children in Canada on Monday.

Cybertip.ca receives an average of more than 3,300 reports per month, and they "encourage Canadians to protect children from offenders by "WHILE THIS IS CERTAINLY A GLOBAL PROBLEM, THE SAD REALITY IS THAT THESE CRIMES ARE ALSO HAPPENING IN HOMES ACROSS CANADA."

taking action and reporting concerning online behaviour."

In support of Cybertip.ca Awareness Day 2016, the Canadian Centre has launched a national campaign to raise awareness about the online sexual exploitation of children and to show the public how tips from Canadians can help protect children from sexual abuse.

"While this is certainly a global problem, the sad reality is that these crimes are also happening in homes across Canada," Canadian Centre executive director Lianna McDonald said in a press release. "Anytime we see a report of a child who has been sexually abused, there should be immediate consideration that the abuse has been recorded and shared online."

The Canadian Centre said a recent study conducted by the Canadian Centre examined close to 152,000 reports, including 43,762 images and videos classified as child pornography.

Nearly 80 per cent of the images assessed by Cybertip.ca depicted children under the age of 12.

"One of the most alarming and under recognized facts is that almost 70 per cent of these images appeared to have been taken within a home setting," the Canadian Centre said in a press release.

The Canadian Centre is encouraging parents and all adult members of the community to visit Cybertip.ca to "view the ad campaign and to engage in the conversation on social using the hashtag #ctipday2016."

The Canadian Centre also announced that in the coming weeks they will bring together experts from around the world to develop global recommendations to support the victims of child pornography.

"We cannot keep tackling the growing problem of online child sexual abuse imagery with outdated approaches," McDonald said. "That's why our agency is investing in innovative solutions to address the issue of online child sexual abuse imagery."

Horse tails continue to be cut throughout the Interlake

By Natasha Tersigni

When Michelle Hamilton went out to see her two horses, Indy and Cisco, on Sept. 9 she quickly noticed that something was missing; both their tails, which normally are close to the ground had been cut. It was a shocking discovery that left the Teulon area resident angry and confused as to why someone would commit a crime such as this.

Hamilton, who has since heard of other horses in the area having their tails' cuts. wants to warn fellow horse owners in the Interlake to be on the lookout for people committing this crime.

After reporting the incident to the Teulon's RCMP detachment, Hamilton began to do her own research and found that there is a lucrative market for horsehair.

"I have never heard of this until it happened to us. I started Googling it and found out that it has been going on for a long time. The hair is used for hair extensions (for both humans and for show horses), for crafts, it can be made into hat bands and used for art supplies such as paint brushes," said Hamilton who added that without their tails horses, are more susceptible to certain health risks.

"Without their tails they cannot swat away flies that bite or sting, especially with black flies which could cause a

One day I noticed there were a lot of burrs in my horse's tail so I said to myself 'when I come out next I will brush her tail.'The next day when I went out to feed them her tail was gone. Watch out for blacklegged ticks

Tick-borne diseases, such as Anaplasmosis, Babesiosis and Lyme disease, can be contracted through the bite of an infected blacklegged tick.

Manitobans can reduce contact with blacklegged ticks by avoiding wooded or forested habitat, wearing long pants and a long-sleeved shirt, tucking in clothing, using an appropriate repellent (it should state 'for use against ticks' on the product label), looking for and removing ticks as soon as possible.

For more information about tick-borne diseases, including symptoms and prevention tips, visit our website at www.manitoba. ca/health/publichealth/cdc/tickborne

You can help

You can help in the study of tick-borne diseases in Manitoba by collecting and submitting blacklegged ticks for surveillance purposes.

- Blacklegged ticks are smaller than the more common wood tick. Unlike wood ticks, they do not have white markings on their bodies.
- If you find a blacklegged tick, remove it slowly from skin or clothing using tweezers and steady pressure; avoid twisting. Cleanse area with soap and water or a disinfectant.
- The second second second a second second and the second se a pill bottle) with a piece of slightly damp paper towel (to help keep the tick alive).
- Firmly tape the lid shut.
- Check the pictures and additional information on the website to determine if your tick might be a blacklegged tick.

What likes minnows more, a pickerel or a turtle?

Hi fellow fishing buddies.

This week, unusual stories have come our way, so dust off your open mind and sense of humor and lets' have a chuckle.

It was a bright but cool day in the middle of last week as I walked out the doors of the South Beach Casino having enjoyed another of their great buffet lunches. As I made for my car I noticed a couple who had been sitting across from me in the restaurant getting into their truck. We smiled at each other as I got close to them, then on the spur of the moment I called out to the chap asking if he was an angler.

He laughed saying he and his wife were on their way to their cottage by Manigotagon Lake and yes he lived to fish.

I hustled over to him asking if he had a fishing story for us. He raised a finger in thought then exclaimed,"Yes I do!"

Earlier this summer our new friend, Jr Beninza was fishing on "his" lake and felt a respectable strike. He began reeling in when he felt another heavier hit. Ir a shorter, muscular and determined chap continued reeling in forcefully. To his amazement an averaged sized pickerel splashed to the surface with a huge turtle clamped onto its tail. Ir called over to a friend who was fishing close-by in his boat and between them with two nets they landed the fish and turtle that still refused to let go of the pickerel.

Without really thinking Jr grabbed his tub of minnows, which by now were thawed out, smelly and "gooey" and spilled them by the turtles' head. It miraculously let go of the fish becoming very interested in the minnows. When Jr could, he grappled and tossed the turtle overboard but he kept that pickerel.

We haven't been to Riverton for a while so I drove over there last

EXPRESS PHOTO BY ARNIE WEIDL Greg Favel who caught this nice pickerel while he gave us a story on the Selkirk pier.

Thursday and ran into Jim Zagozewski owner of Zag Fab Boats. As we talked I told him about Jrs' story and Jims' eyes darted about for a moment then he said he knew of a somewhat bizarre story.

James Kelly, a chap he knows, told him of a time in the 60's by Lockport when he and friends caught a sturgeon and wanted to take pictures with it. One of the groups wives' who was pregnant apparently approached the fish just as it swung its' tail slapping her on the cheek. Later, when her baby was born it had a slight temporary mark like a fishes' tail on the same side of its cheek as where the mothers' was struck. Strange.

On the weekend I took great pleasure sitting and spinning yarns with anglers on the Selkirk pier. On one side of me there was Greg Anderson a big jolly grey-haired chap with his long time fishing buddy Ron Duncan, a thinner fellow with salt and pepper hair. He got me laughing when he said years ago his brother-in-law Dick Dalmon was fishing on the Red and caught something big.

He tussled with his catch for quite some time pulling his rod close to his face then letting it down as he reeled in. Excited, with a good sized sauger hooked, he brought his rod up close to his face for another reel-in cycle but the hot end of the cigarette he had in his mouth touched his line disintegrating it.

He lost his line and the fish.

On the other side of me was Greg Favel, his wife Ashley and son Jackson who were have a fishing visit with Ashley's dad Richard Weger of Selkirk. Greg had a story for us and tried to tell it as delicately as he could.

Greg is also a commercial fisher and years ago went up to work at a fish plant by McBeth Lake near Lake Winnipeg. His gang had gotten into camp late so he made lunch for the guys frying some fish in cooking oil; or so he thought. The food seemed fine but the next morning they woke up with their stomachs' in turmoil. They found themselves getting up cautiously and wobbling to the bathroom as quickly as possible. Later the men discovered Greg had used dish soap to fry the fish instead of the cooking oil. Well now we know dish soap works as well as Exlax.

Bye for now.

Public booze sales better than private, study shows

By Dave Baxter

Manitoba's public liquor sales model is "better" and "more socially responsible" when compared to private sales models in other Western provinces, according to a report released last week.

The Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives (CCPA) Manitoba Office released the report last Thursday.

"This report solidifies why the public sale of liquor is safer and more responsible," Lynne Fernandez, the Errol Black Chair in Labour Issues with the CCPA said in a press release.

The 41-page report entitled "Balancing Convenience with Social Responsibility" looked at five key topics all relating to the relationship between revenue from alcohol sales and social responsibility when it comes to the sale of alcohol.

The study claims "Manitoba has the lowest cost to government when considering the social costs of alcohol consumption, which include health, crime, reduced productivity and property damage."

All provinces have a deficit of revenue from alcohol minus social costs, but Manitoba's is the lowest at -$12.86 per capita, which is a third of the national average of -36.75, the study said.

Selkirk's The Merch bar owner Dean Peterson said he is satisfied with the system currently in place for selling booze in Manitoba.

Selkirk's The Merch bar owner Dean Peterson says he believes the current system for selling and distributing liquor in Manitoba works well for both sellers and consumers.

"They are certainly doing a good job in Manitoba with the Liquor and Gaming Authority, (LGA) and they really have it down to a science," Peterson said last Friday about Manitoba's current liquor distribution system, which sees a mix of public and limited private sales. "It's a good model we have now."

Peterson said because he works in the business of selling booze through both bar and vendor sales, he understands the importance of balancing social responsibility with business and profits.

"If it were privatized businesses could have sales or promote or advertise it differently, or sell it in discount volumes," he said. "And that would likely open the door to putting revenue over social responsibility.

"You would see it become more like the Wild West. I know some sellers express interest in private sales, but the system in place now is there to protect the sellers and the consumers."

The report also said it "debunks myths that private liquor sales lead to reduced costs for consumers" and that "liquor prices rose in Alberta after privatization."

Peterson said owners of small bars, vendors and liquor stores could suffer if alcohol sales in Manitoba were privatized.

"Privatizing is something that would be good for the bigger companies and corporations, and they would benefit most because of the volumes they could buy," he said. "If large supermarkets or department stores sell privately small vendors might not be able to compete.

"At least now we keep the playing field regulated and if it weren't regulated the mom-and-pop type vendors would be in danger of closing."

Peterson said although some more freedom to control prices would be appreciated by most in the liquor business, he would not want to see privatization because there are "too many unknowns"

"If it's not broke don't fix it," he said. "The bigger picture would be we create more social-economic problems."

The Municipal Board of Manitoba will hold a public hearing in St. Andrews in October to hear from those who are in favour, and those who are opposed to the first phase of a new sewer system that is expected to come to the RM.

The Municipal Board will host a public hearing on Wednesday, Oct. 19 at the St. Andrews Community Club at 28 St. Andrews Road at 7 p.m. and if more time is needed the meeting will continue on Thursday, Oct. 20 at 10 a.m. at the same location.

The Municipal Board is an "Independent Body" appointed by Orderin-Council and hearings before the Board are open to the public.

The meeting will allow the Municipal Board to hear any presentations in objection to or in support of St. Andrews By-law 4271.

The municipality is currently working on a project that would bring a new sewer system into St. Andrews in phases, and phase one would see more than 900 homes in the south end of the municipality hooked up to a permanent sewer system that would see sewage travel from St. Andrews through West St. Paul, to a sewage treatment plant in Winnipeg.

By-law 4271 would allow for the construction of a regional wastewater collection system from Riversprings Drive in West St. Paul to River Road in St. Andrews, a lift station and odour control system at River Road, and low-pressure sewer lines throughout 'phase one.'

St. Andrews Mayor George Pike said there has been some objection to the plan from St Andrews residents, and that is why the Municipal Board will hold the hearing.

"We have given the board info and they will review the facts based on several factors," Pike said. "And at the meeting the people can give their input and then the municipal board has 30 days to make a decision."

Pike said the Municipal Board can decide to halt the project, allow it to continue, or request that changes be made to the plan before it can move forward.

The Municipal Board said that anyone who would like to submit written material as evidence at the hearing or other documents must file four copies of that material with the board and one copy with the municipality for public review, at least 10 working days before the hearing.

The RM of St. Andrews will also be allowed to make a presentation at the hearing.

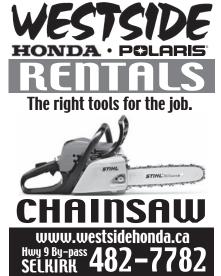

The estimated cost for phase one of the sewer project is $15,185,317.

The municipality has a deal to secure $4 million in funds from the federal government, $3.75 million from the Manitoba Water Services Board and $510,888 from the municipality's Gas Tax Reserve Fund.

The remaining balance of $6,924,429 is then to be borrowed by the municipality.

St. Clements hosts open house

St. Clements hires recreation leader, sets sights on master plan

An artist's rendering shows one proposed design for the South St. Clements Activity Centre.

The mayor of St. Clements says the RM is focused on bringing more recreation options to the community and remains focused on creating an activity centre in the municipality's south end.

At an open house event on Sept. 16 St. Clements Mayor Debbie Fiebelkorn said the municipality is increasing its focus on creating a recreation plan for the RM and recently added what she called a "recreation leader" to their staff to help guide their plans.

Council recently brought in Dave Harcus to take on the brand new role of manager of recreation and leisure services for St. Clements.

"What we have done is hired a recreation leader," Fiebelkorn said about the new hire. "And what we would like him to do is give us direction on where we should be going with recreation, so we have a real solid plan."

Fiebelkorn said Harcus will first spend time getting to know where recreation services currently sit in the RM and where they can be improved.

"He is actually visiting a lot of the community clubs and anything to do with recreation," Fiebelkorn said. "He is going to try and touch base with everybody and see what we have, what we need, what we can enhance, and where we have too much."

St. Clements has also been focused for the past few years on getting an activity centre set up in the south end, as Fiebelkorn said current recreation options in that area are "lacking."

She said a committee currently made up of 21 members is working on plans for what would be the South St. Clements Activity Centre, and will soon present council with their findings and ideas. "CONSULTATION AND DESIGN EFFORTS ARE UNDERWAY TO DETERMINE WHAT RECREATION INFRASTRUCTURE SHOULD LOOK LIKE IN SOUTH ST. CLEMENTS."

"We are still planning to do some sort of community building in the south end," she said. "We had another open house recently and 21 people put their hands up to sit on a committee.

"So they are going to come up with a plan to present to council."

In a recent press release the RM said a South St. Clements recreation plan remains a priority.

"New recreation options for South St. Clements residents have been in the works for many years," the municipality said in a press release. "Consultation and design efforts are underway to determine what recreation infrastructure should look like in South St. Clements.

"We are focusing on a multipurpose building as well as outdoor amenities such as an outdoor rink and play structures."

In 2013, Dillon Consulting completed the South St. Clements Recreation Needs Assessment report that proposed seventeen recommendations to meet recreation needs of South St. Clements residents.

In 2014, Dillon Consulting undertook a feasibility study for planning the construction of a proposed activity centre.

Their current facility's basement was flooded after several summer storms this year and they are also dealing with a rodent problem.

Their current 15-bed shelter, houses nearly 110 women and their children per year, she said.

"If you're not involved with this line of work you don't know and that's why we're trying to make the public aware of what this means for victims of violence," she said.

The first meeting at Selkirk's Nova House location was on March 27, 1985 when they occupied a small office on Main Street and provided only a crisis line and counselling.

Selkirk's shelter for abused women and children now serves the Interlake and North Eastman region of Manitoba along with 19 First Nations and is known for having the highest occupancy rate when compared to other locations across the province.

They provide temporary shelter, counselling, support groups, a children's program and referrals to community resources just to name a few. Since Selkirk isn't far from Winnipeg, women often seek refuge at Nova House from their abusive partners, Pazdzierski said, adding they outgrew their current location years ago.

"A lot of women find Selkirk safer," Pazdzierski said.

Their new two-storey facility will host 24 shelter beds and four transitional apartment units for women.

Those in need of assistance can call Nova House's 24-hour crisis line at 1-877-977-0007 or locally by calling 204-482-1200.

New drop spot in Stony Mountain for used baby items

By Jennifer McFee

If you have baby items that you're no longer using, why not consider donating them to help a Manitoba family in need?

Now it's even easier than ever to donate to the non-profit organization You Can't Spoil a Baby since there is a brand new drop-off site in Stony Mountain.

A Stony Mountain mom named Brandy recently signed up to be a drop spot for the Winnipeg-based group, which delivers once-loved and new baby items to parents that could use a helping hand.

As of Sept. 1, the volunteer-run project has delivered more than 725 gifts since project founder Pamela Delisle launched the initiative five years ago. The project sustains itself thanks to a core team of 50 volunteers.

The organization provides families with a customized gift of baby clothes and other items to help them with their baby's first year.

However, the need is great since more than 150 families are currently on the waitlist, with an average wait time of five months to receive a package. Families in need of a gift should aim to apply as early in their pregnancy as possible.

Brandy decided to get involved to provide an opportunity to do some good work with her daughters, eight-year-old Ashton and nearly five-yearold Payton.

"I was looking for something we could do together. I liked the idea that it could be at home and we could go through the clothes. I could explain what they were for and why we were doing it," she said.

"That's why I wanted to do this plus I think it's a really good cause. If you're not with a lot of means, then having a baby can be quite an expense."

As one of 30 drop spots in the province, Brandy is collecting baby items that will go towards creating a full package for a family.

The most needed items include baby clothes for little ones up to 18 months old, as well as items related to breastfeeding, diapering, bath time, feeding and sleeping. Other items in high demand include baby carriers, baby furniture, baby gear such as bouncy chairs and exersaucers, strollers and gifts for older siblings.

Donors can drop off as few or as many items as they would like. To arrange to drop off baby items in Stony Mountain, email Brandy at bjcantspoilababy@yahoo.com.

Other Interlake drop spots are located in St. Andrews, Selkirk and Clandeboye.

Last Friday morning former St. Andrews Community Club treasurer Sharon Wasny did not appear in court at the Selkirk Court of Queen's Bench for what was a scheduled court appearance.

The case has been pushed back and Wasny's next scheduled court appearance is now set for Oct. 14.

Wasny also did not appear at a scheduled court appearances in Selkirk on the same charges on June 17, Aug. 19 and Sept 23.

In April, RCMP arrested and charged Wasny, 53, of St. Andrews, with theft over $5,000 and falsifying documents in relation to alleged fraud at the St. Andrews Community Club that dates back to January 2005 and ends in July 2012.

She is presumed innocent and none of the charges have been proven in court.

Court records show Wasny is banned from the St. Andrews Community Club and is banned from being in contact with any of its board members.

Wasny is the former treasurer of the St. Andrews Community Club.

RCMP have previously said they believe more than $200,000 was stolen from the club while Wasny was treasurer.

Home Hardware helps bring 69 new trees to Selkirk Park

By Lindsey Enns

Selkirk Home Hardware Building Centre and the Selkirk Community Renewal Corporation teamed up with Tree Canada to help bring nearly 70 new trees to Selkirk Park last week.

In honour of National Tree Day on Sept. 23, representatives from each business and organization, the City of Selkirk and some members of the Selkirk Steelers gathered in Selkirk Park last Friday morning to help start planting 20 Lord Selkirk Maple trees and 49 Unity Maple trees.

The plant site at Selkirk Park, near the agricultural building, was chosen to help reforest parts of the 200 acre park that have been damaged by flood waters in the past.

Selkirk Home Hardware applied to Tree Canada for a grant for the trees. Kristy Magnusson, community facilitator with the Selkirk Community Renewal Corporation, recommended Home Hardware donate the trees to the City of Selkirk.

"We're constantly upgrading our parks and buying trees and planting them in various parks and this is a huge boost to us," said Chris Carruthers, the city's director of culture, recreation and green transportation. "We thank Tree Canada for helping us take another step towards reforesting Selkirk's parks."

Carruthers said the city plans to naturalize some of its parks, beginning with Penwarden. It will be returned to natural grasses and the Maple trees will be planted throughout the park, leaving space so other types of trees can be planted among them.

The city also announced on Monday that Selkirk will soon host a tree farm.

The tree farm will benefit current residents, as well as future generations, as it will continually provide a source of new trees.

Fifteen types of trees will be planted, including shrubs, evergreens and flowering trees, so the city will be filled with a wide variety of tree life.

The multi-year program will begin this year with the planting of 350 trees.

The city is working with the Lord Selkirk School Division to plant the trees at the tree farm and city staff members are handling the design and layout of the site.

The city has received a $5,000 grant from TD Canada Trust for the tree farm and is working with the East Interlake Conservation District as well.

This marked the fourth year that Selkirk Home Hardware Building Centre has participated in Home Hardware's annual tree plantings with Tree Canada.

which donated nearly $1,600 worth of trees to the community. All 45 trees were planted in East Selkirk's Legacy Park, near the East Selkirk Recreation Centre.

"We're excited to work together with Tree Canada and Home Hardware Stores Limited on this important project," Selkirk Home Hardware Building Centre dealer-owner Rob Borthistle said in a release."We have enjoyed great support from the local community and this is an excellent opportunity to give back in a real and tangible way to thank our customers and community for their support over the years."

This year, 16 Home Hardware locations are participating in tree planting initiatives across the country.

Over the past 24 years, Home Hardware has partnered with Tree Canada to improve green spaces across the country, planting more than 22,000 trees valued at $1.2 million.

National Tree Day falls on the Wednesday of National Forest Week. This day is celebrated across the country with tree dedications, plantings, educational workshops, outdoor education walks, interpretive days, schoolyard plantings and seminars.

"We are proud that Home Hardware is committed to improving the environment – now and for generations to come," president of Tree Canada. Michael Rosen said in a release. "To see such a widespread effort on the part of Home Dealers in communities across Canada is extremely inspiring and sets a great example for Canadians."

Tree Canada is a non-profit charitable organization established to encourage Canadians to plant and care for trees in urban and rural environments.

Since 1992, more than 80 million trees have been planted, more than 580 schoolyards have been greened, and Tree Canada has helped organize 11 national urban forest conferences.

New health centre hopes to bring more docs to Selkirk

By Lindsey Enns

A new health and wellness centre coming to Selkirk is hoping to bring more than 100 new medical and health care professionals to the area.

Barry Mosiondz, vice president of human resources and administration for Easton Place Medical Centre, said the centre will employ a number of family doctors, general physicians, hip surgeons, psychiatrists, pediatricians as well as several other specialty doctors from chiropractors to dentists.

"We're very excited to have a facility where it will be a one stop shop for all your medical needs," Mosiondz said during an earlier interview with the Record. "There's nothing that we are aware of that has all of those in one place."

Mosiondz said "as a recruiter, Selkirk is not a hard sell."

"This is an extremely desirable place to live," he said. "Combined with a culture that embraces technology and strong mentorship, we hope Easton Place will encourage doctors and their families to become a part of the community and share in our common goal of making Selkirk and the Interlake the best place to live in the province."

Mosiondz said they are on track to begin construction of the first phase of the roughly five-year project in spring 2017.

The first phase will be the medical clinic, which will be home to an array of doctors including an orthodontist, dentist, chiropractor, physiotherapist, optometrist, audiologist as well as visiting specialists to make it easier for patients to access multiple medical experts in one day.

The award was established by Manitoba Education and Training in consultation with the Minister's Advisory Council on Workforce Development, which provides information and advice to government about workforce trends, initiatives, policies and strategies for workforce development.

Manitoba businesses, organizations and collectives, including large or small, private or public, can be nominated. Criteria include: innovation that showcases unique approaches to career and workforce development; engagement that supports diversity serve to help those recovering from surgery or those unable to manage at home alone.

"Easton Place will provide Selkirk and Interlake residents access to world-class medical and wellness services in one convenient location, without the expense and stress of travelling to Winnipeg," said Neil Winther, vice president of planning and development for Easton Place.

Winther added they are also working closely with the Selkirk and District Hospital and Selkirk Mental Health Centre so that their services will complement what they are already doing.

"We want to integrate our project with everything else that's being offered in the community," he said.

Once complete, it is estimated the health and wellness centre will cost around $80 to $100 million, some of which is being funded by a local surgeon and they are hoping to raise the rest through fundraising efforts.

Although they haven't started officially collecting funds just yet, Winther said they've been receiving all kinds of support from community and area organizations.

Winther added the project is very "unique" and unlike anything else in North America.

Easton Place will occupy nearly 16.5 acres of land along Easton Drive directly across from the new hospital that is currently under construction and adjacent to Selkirk Veterinary Services.

"We are making great progress and hope to break ground on the Medical Centre as soon as the spring of 2017," Winther said. Local couple uses horse-drawn wagons to travel pioneer trail

By Patricia Barrett

A group of covered wagon enthusiasts took to the open trail last week for a leisurely autumn sojourn through Manitoba's central Interlake.

Using horse-drawn wagons – replicas from pioneering days – the group set out from Grosse Isle and headed north up the Interlake Pioneer Trail, a former Canadian National rail line.

When they reached Poplarfield, they took Highway 68 into town, where they fed and watered their horses and settled in for the night.

Nick Samorodny, who grew up in Poplarfield, and his wife, Helen, who grew up in Chatfield, acted as trail masters for the group.

"We organize the rides and we haul water for the horses," said Nick.

A local man greeted the wagon train and arranged a water fill-up.

"I've known him [Nick] all my life," said Ron, who originally grew up in Broad Valley before settling in Poplarfield.

The Samorodny's have their own covered wagon but opted to travel by recreational vehicle, hauling a trailer with a huge water tank for the horses.

The wagoneers used to journey up the Pioneer Trail after spring thaw, but found that nature was not always agreeable to outdoor living.

"We used to do it every year [to Poplarfield] for 11 or 12 years in the springtime," said Nick, who now lives in West St. Paul. "But the wood ticks got so bad in this area so we quit."

RECORD PHOTOS BY PATRICIA BARRETT Ron (far left) from Poplarfield and Nick and Helen Samorodny from West St. Paul prepare to get the wagons rolling for a jaunt up to Fisher Branch.

The group has travelled to Riding Mountain and Turtle Mountain. It has been about seven years since they last rolled into Poplarfield.

The members make their own wagons, which contain sleeping quarters. Nick said it cost him about $600 for a tarp to cover his wagon.

The Interlake Pioneer Trail set out from Grosse Isle and headed north up to Poplarfield. The wagon train arrived and departed town by Highway 68 on its way up to Fisher Branch.

To stave off chilly autumn nights, the wagons are fitted with heaters.

"Some people have propane heaters in their wagons," said Nick. "One guy installed an electric heater."

The Pioneer Trail, formerly known as the Prime Meridian Trail, stretches 106 kilometres between Highway 67 and Fisher Branch. The trail passes through Grosse Isle, Argyle, Inwood, Sandridge, Narcisse, Chatfield, Poplarfield, Broad Valley and Fisher Branch, according to the web site of the South Interlake ATV Club, which has a 25-year lease on the trail.

ATVs are permitted from May 1 to Oct 31 each year. From November 1 to April 30, the trail becomes a Snoman (snowmobile) trail.

The wagoneers destination was Fisher Branch, where they intended to spend the night then take the trail homewards.

Oak Hammock Marsh hosts traditional decoy carving competition

By Lana Meier

The Oak Hammock Marsh Carving Guild hosted its 13th Annual Decoy Carving Competition on Sept. 18 with a large assortment of true hunting, traditional and contemporary style entries.

Each life-size decoy is judged on a number of features including its ability to float and right itself if flipped in water, its resemblance to real life, if alert or relaxed, the length of neck or bill.

Most decoys are carved from cork with a wood head and tail attached after and are painted with acrylic or oil.

The carvers entries were divided into three categories, Novice, Intermediate and Open with categories being determined by experience and whether a carver had won Best in Show in a certain division previously.

Organic pizza wows crowds at Integrity Foods farm

By Patricia Barrett

Don't lose your grip on your pen at the Integrity Foods farm because one of the Friesen family's spirited pigs will cart it off into the shrubbery and chew it to the marrow.

The pigs, who like a scratch behind the ears and a slice of juicy cucumber, were one of the main attractions at Integrity, about 10 kilometres north of Riverton on Road 141N.

Pizza was another.

The farm was part of Manitoba's annual Open Farm Day earlier this month, which lets visitors learn about and experience life on a range of farms, from bison and dairy to grain and soybeans.

The Friesen family, who won an Interlake Tourism Award in 2007, are farmers-turned-bakers, specialising in hearth-baked products made from spelt and Khorasan, ancient grains classified in the wheat family.

Cornelius and Dora Friesen, along with their son Jason and his wife Dori, welcomed hundreds of visitors on Sunday.

It seemed that most people came for the pizza.

"I came here Canada Day for pizza," said Haonan, who lives in Winnipeg. "And they told me today is an Open Farm Day, so I brought my mom (who's visiting from China) here."

Ivan and his family from Arborg were also on site. While his grandsons played outdoor shuffleboard-pool (a hybrid game) in what looked like a modified feed trough, he relaxed on one of the benches the Friesen's have set up for visitors.

"We come here quite often in the summer," said Ivan, who fishes regularly in the Riverton area. "They have pizza nights on Fridays."

Other families from Winnipeg said they came for the pizza.

Jon, who specialises in wet plate collodion photography (dating to 1850), and will be presenting an exhibition on Indigenous women Oct. 1 in the Exchange District, brought his wife Amanda and kids Liviah and Zakk to see the animals and enjoy the pizza.

Jason Friesen was manning the outdoor brick oven and could barely keep up with the orders.

"We have a Garden Special pizza," said Jason. "People can take a basket and pick what they want from the garden."

The meat ingredients come from local farmers.

The family had experimented with organic farming, but in the 1990s found it was no longer viable and they became organic bakers.

The family shuts down the summeronly pizza operation in September and concentrates on breads, buns, cookies, muffins, granola, cinnamon rolls and other products that it supplies to stores such as Arborg's Co-op, Gimli's Sugar Me Cookie Bakery, Vita Health stores in Winnipeg and health food stores in Steinbach and Portage la Prairie.

The family offered samples of their wholesome fare to visitors. A chewy gingersnap cookie and a slice of organic sesame spelt bread are not lights snacks, but veritable meals.

Cornelius showed visitors the huge indoor wood-fired brick oven, which was built by his daughter Rebekah.

The clay bricks have holes in them and expand when they get hot. If there are no pores, the bricks will crack, said Cornelius.

They turn out hundreds of pizzas every summer.

"We were very busy...last year," he said."When we got to 110 (pizzas), we were quite relaxed!"

Cornelius can do more than make and bake bread: he's also a chickenwhisperer.

He learned to mimic the call of a rooster from his dad, who used to farm in Blumenort near Steinbach. He delighted visitors when his chickens hightailed it across a large enclosure.

He showed some youngsters how to collect eggs then offered each child a complimentary egg.

In addition to the chickens and the pigs, the Friesen's goat and alpaca were star attractions.

Proposed fish plant for Gimli in exploratory stages

By Patricia Barrett

Discussions between the RM of Gimli and a businessman who wants to build a fish plant in the Industrial Park west of Highway 8 have not yet progressed beyond the exploratory stages.

Donald Salkeld, who's on administrative leave as president and CEO of the federally run Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation, which markets fish on behalf of the province's commercial fishers, recently met with RM representatives to discuss the acquisition of 11 acres of land.

Gimli Mayor Randy Woroniuk said the RM supports the proposal and has entered into a gentleman's agreement with Salkeld. No paperwork or money, however, has been exchanged.

"He doesn't have formal ownership of that land yet," said Woroniuk. "We've made a commitment to him that we'll hold the land until everything is in proper order."

At this stage, the mayor said the fish plant is "just a concept" and what the RM needs is a formal business plan, including the names of any business partners, before the process can move forward.

Salkeld did not say when he'll present the RM with a business plan, said Woroniuk, but had indicated he wants to have his fish plant operational by September 2017.

According to a Sept. 21 article in the Interlake Enterprise, Salkeld held a meeting with 100 fishers at Gimli's Lakeview Resort to gauge their response to his proposed plant. The article said the Gimli plant would be a receiving station at which fish will be de-headed and gutted then shipped to an Ontario processing plant owned by John Omstead, whom Salkeld invited to the meeting.

There are no details as to why the FFMC placed Salkeld on leave, which occurred in March. He became president and CEO of Freshwater in 2014.

The FFMC did not respond to a request for information as to if/when Salkeld will be taken off administrative leave.

Salkeld could not be reached for comment.

From an economic standpoint, the mayor said a fish plant would benefit the RM.

"If he (Salkeld) gets this thing going, we'll have the taxation on it and that's good for the municipality," said Woroniuk.

As for rough fish, or opportunity fish as the mayor prefers to call them, fewer will be wasted if fishermen can find new markets that Freshwater hasn't tapped.

"We have lots of fish in this lake."

Dufferin Gang committee seeks relatives of brave men, women

By Dave Baxter

A committee working to permanently honour the Dufferin Gang in Selkirk is hoping that anyone that may be related to a member of the Dufferin Gang will come forward and be part of the process during a meeting this Friday.

The meeting is being held at the Selkirk Legion at 403 Eveline Street in Selkirk.

Lorne Canvin is heading up a committee looking to get a permanent Dufferin Gang memorial set up in Selkirk and he recently said the committee is getting closer to making that memorial a reality.

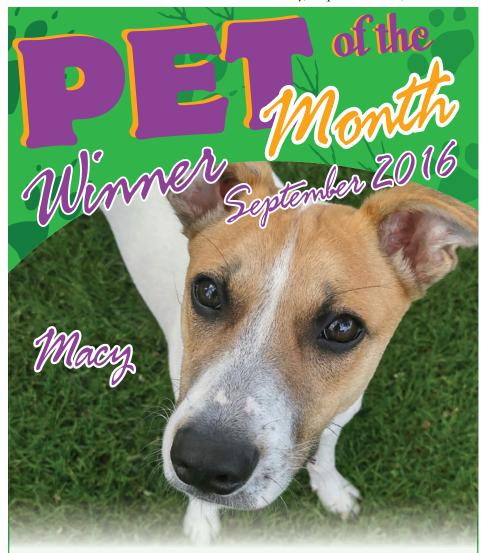

The group known as the Dufferin Gang consists of 31 men and women who lived on the block of Dufferin Avenue in Selkirk between Main Street and Jemima Street, and served in the Second World War. Canvin said it is believed that those 31 men and women make up the most soldiers from a single city block in all of Canada to serve in the Second World War.

As plans continue to progress, Canvin said he believes there could be others in Selkirk or in other areas that may want to get involved in the planning stage for the memorial.

"I would hate to see this memorial happen and then find out there was someone who didn't know about it, and didn't get a chance to get involved," Canvin said.

Canvin said anyone that may be related to one of the Dufferin Gang can call him at 204-485-2134, or show up at Friday's meeting.

Currently Bill Little who now lives in Ontario and is in his 90's is the only surviving member of the Dufferin Gang.

Teulon author to offer inspirational workshop

By Jennifer McFee

Best-selling author Daphne Shepherd is living proof that each individual can activate his or her brilliance along the path to abundance.

Last November, the Teulon resident published her book Path to Abundance: It's Your Time, which skyrocketed to success.

"The way it turned out, becoming and international bestseller was a complete surprise - but a very welcome surprise. It was quite nice that way. It went to No. 1 in 14 categories, so it actually became the No. 1 bestselling book in all of Canada," she said.

"I'll just never ever forget the course of that day watching it go through the ranks on Amazon. They launched it in the morning and it started out at about 5,632nd place and then it went right to No. 1. It was sensational."

Now Shepherd is encouraging others to reach their own highest potential through a two-day workshop called "It's an Inside Job" slated for Oct. 29 and 30 at the Quarry Park Heritage Arts Centre.

"We can't look outside of ourselves for love, and we can't look outside ourselves for acceptance or fulfillment or purpose or happiness. These have to come from deep within where our purest clarity of our purpose lies,"

Daphne Shepherd, shown here with Bob Proctor who wrote the foreword to her book, will host a two-day workshop at the Heritage Arts Centre on Oct. 29 and 30.

Shepherd said.

"That is what the whole workshop is — to delve in and discover and help people authenticate themselves with their life purpose. Once you do that, you awaken yourself to new possibilities, you gain clarity on ideas and goals in your life in a whole new perspective. It's such important information to get out to people."

The workshop will feature multimedia tools including writing and videos to help people journey towards a fulfilling life, she added.

"The workshops are for everybody. It's for the moms and dads, teenagers, corporate people — everybody. This is universal knowledge or teachings. Every single one of us has special gifts to share with this world that are unique to us. And the truth is that we can have and do everything that we desire. Abundance is our birthright," said Shepherd, a real estate broker and owner of RE/MAX Encore Realty.

"But it's unfortunate because for so many of us we have such a limited vision of who we are and what we're truly capable of. But when we start to develop an understanding of this material, then we learn how we can work in harmony with this material to cultivate anything we want in our lives."

Interest in the workshop is gaining momentum, since Shepherd has had inquiries from potential participants from as far away as Calgary.

"I'm looking forward to connecting with people and learning their stories and learning how the material changes their life. Since I started studying this, my life has absolutely changed dramatically in every area," she said.

Anyone who would like to participate in the "It's an Inside Job" workshop can register right up until the workshop date. Registration is available online at activatingyourbrilliance.com.

Shepherd's book Path to Abundance: It's Your Time is also available through the website as well as on Amazon and at McNally Robinson Booksellers.

Interlake Salvage celebrates 25 years in business

SelkirkRecord

By Jennifer Mcfee

It's all in the family at Interlake Salvage, which recently celebrated its 25th anniversary in business.

The Clarke family launched the award-winning company in 1991, and since then, the booming business has continued to grow.

On Friday, Sept. 9, well-wishers gathered at the impeccably clean site in the Stonewall Industrial Park to celebrate the milestone, including guests from as far as Saskatchewan. The festive atmosphere featured a mouth-watering breakfast and lunch barbecue, gift bags, a prize draw and, of course, speeches from dignitaries and from the Clarkes themselves.

Lakeside MLA Ralph Eichler was first to take the stage, offering congratulations as well as a plaque to mark the occasion. As someone who uses the services of Interlake Salvage, Eichler attributes their success to the Clarkes' fair business practices.

Next up, Deputy Mayor Clive Hinds extended good wishes on behalf of the Town of Stonewall to Mike, Julie and James Clarke and family.

"We are pleased as a town that Mike actually chose Stonewall and this particular location to put this business because this business has highlighted the Town of Stonewall. Communities close and far away support this business and come into Stonewall to do business," he said.

"This business also has helped us to clean up the community. One of the worst things you can see when you go into a town is derelict vehicles, rubber tires and everything. ... Coun. Smith will attest that we just had Communities in Bloom judges in this area and they gave us a thumbs-up for a clean, beautiful town."

Steelers beat Blues twice, lose to Pistons

By Brian Bowman

Three games in three nights is never easy.

And the Selkirk Steelers appeared, at times, to be a tired hockey club in a 3-0 home loss to the Steinbach Pistons in MJHL action Sunday at the Selkirk Rec Complex.

"That's a pretty good Steinbach Pistons club at the moment and they had a day off and we had three in three," said Steelers' head coach Dustin Hughes. "But I don't think I'm going to use it as an excuse because it's still pretty early in the season. I just don't think that we played our 'A' game."

Ryan Carlson scored the lone goal in the first period and then Sean O'Leary and Troy Williams tallied in the second. Williams' goal was a backbreaker for the Steelers as it came with just a second left in the period.

"I'm not going to say that we would have come back and won that game for sure because Steinbach is a pretty good club,"Hughes said."But we were starting to make a push back."

The Steelers started their regular season last Friday with a solid 3-2 win over the Winnipeg Blues at the MTS Iceplex.

"For the time of year, I thought it was a good start," Hughes said. "But we can still get better as a group in a number of areas."

Conner Barley and Taylor Fisher, on the power play, scored first-period goals for Selkirk and then Dallas Starodub netted the eventual game winner midway in the second.

Former Steeler forward Dexter Kuczek scored early in the second period for Winnipeg and then Brandon Marques made it a one-goal game midway in the third.

Hayden Dola made 33 saves for the win.

On Saturday, Selkirk stopped Winnipeg 3-1 as Conner Barley scored a pair of goals, including a third-period power-play marker. Liam Kroeker added a shorthanded goal for Selkirk in the first period while the Blues' Levi Cudmore scored with the man advantage in the game's final minute. Brett Friesen made 25 saves for the win. The Steelers (2-1) will hit the road for three games this weekend. Selkirk will be in Neepawa on Friday (7:30 p.m.), Swan Valley Saturday (7:30 p.m.), and then Dauphin on Sunday (6 p.m.).

"If you look at our September and October, we have a busy start to the year," Hughes noted. "It's going to present some unique challenges when you're talking three in three and road trips. But, at the end of the day, the good teams get through it and get stronger because of it."

In off-ice new, Steinbach goaltender Roman Bengert earned the first MJHL Recycle Everywhere Player of the Week for the 2016-17 season.

Bengert, 20, who hails from Cole Harbour, N.S., had a 1.00 goalsagainst average with a .949 save percentage in two victories, including the shutout against Selkirk. The runners up for the award were Winkler Flyers' forward Scott Gall and Steelers' forward Connor Barley.

Barley had three goals in the first two Steeler games last weekend.

Meanwhile, Selkirk's Victor Knaub and the Winnipeg Blues' Brock Shwaluk each received a three-game suspension as per the Junior "A" Supplement guidelines regarding a staged fight.

The incident occurred during the game between the Blues and Steelers last Saturday in Selkirk.

Royals spike their way to second tournament title this season

By Brian Bowman

It was announced early last week that the Selkirk Royals were ranked as the top varsity boys'"AAAA" volleyball team in the province.

And the Royals went out and proved that ranking correct as they won the University of Manitoba tournament on Saturday with a thrilling 2-1 victory (25-20, 31-33, 15-13) over the St. Paul's Crusaders.

"We played quite well," said Royals' head coach Jeff Scarcello. "We were in control the whole first set...and then in the second set at around 18 points, St. Paul's picked it up a bit and made the game really tight."

Scarcello was glad that the Royals had an opportunity to face some adversity against a very good St. Paul's team.

"We had to perform with tight situations and a set on the line in the final," Scarcello said." It was good to see how the guys performed in that kind of environment."

The Royals reached the final after downing Vincent Massey 2-0 (25-19, 25-19). In pool play, Selkirk posted a 7-1 record in sets.

Scarcello said the Royals have a bunch of confidence after winning their first two tournaments of the season.

"We have a lot of confidence in ourselves with what's happening out there," said the Royals' head coach. "We've really been able to take it to some good teams when we put it all together.

"We're just trying to find that consistency where we play that kind of game more often...because we're pretty dangerous when we're on fire."

The Royals hosted River East in their KPAC opener Monday evening and promptly blasted the Kodiaks 3-0 by scores of 25-6, 25-16, and 25-13.

The Selkirk Royals varsity boys' volleyball team has won its first two tournaments of the season.

Selkirk will have this weekend off and then will play in three tournaments in October.

Meanwhile, the Royals junior varsity boys' kept pace with the older guys by winning the Miles Mac tournament last weekend.

Selkirk defeated the host Buckeyes 2-0 by scores of 25-21, 25-21 in the final on Saturday. The Royals earned a berth into the final after beating River East 2-0 (25-11, 28-26).

Late goal nixes Selkirk FC's playoff hopes

By Brian Bowman

Selkirk FC suffered one of the worst losses possible with their playoff lives on the line.

Needing a win against the Kildonan Athletic Club in their Division 2 regular-season finale last week to make the playoffs, Selkirk gave up a goal in the 88th minute in a disappointing 1-0 loss.

game winner.

"Both teams came to win," said Selkirk FC head coach Michael Bruenig. "Kildonan Athletic Club, even though they weren't in the playoff hunt, really came to play (that) night."

Selkirk FC dominated play in the first half but simply could not find the net on many occasions. At other Henrique Melo-Cabral scored that times, the Kildonan Athletic Club goalie made the save to nullify a scoring opportunity.

Selkirk FC changed their lineup in the second half but just could not get that elusive first goal. And with Selkirk pressing hard late in the match, Kildonan Athletic Club countered nicely to set up a very good scoring chance that they converted.

"It was a good shot," Bruenig said of the game-winning goal."It was in the bottom corner just inside the post. I have to give him credit for it."

With the loss, Selkirk FC finished its regular season in fifth place with a 7-8-3 record and 24 points, one point behind Borussia Dortmund.

Royals icing talented girls' hockey team this season

By Brian Bowman

There is plenty of excitement surrounding the Selkirk Royals' girls' hockey team this season.

Sure, the team will look great in their new jerseys. But most of the excitement will come from their stellar play on the ice.

Royals' second-year head coach Noah Cain expects to ice a very competitive team this season after making some tough choices with cuts last week.

"It was really encouraging to see our numbers growing," said Cain, noting the Royals had numbers in the "mid-20s range" come out for the team this month."In recent memory, we haven't been making cuts on this team because we haven't had enough players to do it.

"It's good to see the program growing and more interest in the community for it."

The Royals have whittled down their final roster to 19 players, which includes two goalies. Rebecca Zdrill will return in goal for Selkirk along with newcomer Jodi Clifton.

There is a lot of talent on this year's Royals' roster. And with plenty of hard work, Cain feels that this club can win a lot of games this season.

"I'm really excited about this year's team," Cain enthused. "We have a lot of good young players and some veterans as well."

The Royals will have four Grade 12 players – Mary Ryder, Courtney Sorokopud-Jones, Kyra DeLaRonde, and Brooke Anderson – on this year's squad. Cain is really excited to have Anderson join the Royals' program in her senior year.

"(Brooke) is going to be a really strong player for us," Cain said. "And the other three, Courtney, Mary, and Kyra, have been with us since Grade 10 so it's really great to see them in their senior year to give it one last shot."

Selkirk will be competing at a preseason tournament this weekend at the MTS Iceplex. Teams will play three games and then be allocated into one of the two Winnipeg Women's High School Hockey League divisions.

Selkirk will battle Garden City on Saturday (7:50 p.m.) and then will take on Portage la Prairie on Sunday (3:30 p.m.) and West Kildonan later in the day at 6:15 p.m.

Midget Thunder drops fourth consecutive game

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Thunder suffered their fourth consecutive Midget Football League of Manitoba loss after dropping a 22-2 decision to the Falcons Football Club last Saturday in Stonewall.

But Thunder head coach Kris Johnston was proud of how his team played against the first-place Falcons. Interlake trailed by just two scores midway in the fourth quarter.

"I thought our players played an outstanding football game," said Johnston. "Defensively, we blocked a convert and we only gave up two actual touchdowns. We made them earn everything they got."

Falcons' quarterback Ryan Hassar hooked up with receiver Maison Stortz for a touchdown while Demi Adeleye-Olusae rushed for another major.

The Falcons' also received a punt return TD from Kaan Bitchok. Austin deLaroque led the Thunder with nine tackles while Colton Meisner had eight. Interlake played a clean, physical game on the defensive side of the ball, said Johnston.

Interlake was led offensively by Alex France's five catches for 102 yards while Colton Nedotiafko's rushed for 77 yards on 18 carries. Thunder quarterback Thomas Dunlop was 9-for-19 for 131 yards and two interceptions.

The Thunder did a much better job moving the ball against the Falcons compared to the previous week's loss to St. Vital. Still, Interlake will have to learn how to turn those nice drives into points.

"We did move the ball and we did keep the ball out of their hands," Johnston said. "Our rushing attack was, once again, solid."

With the loss, the Thunder are now in fourth place in the five-team league with a 2-5 record. Interlake is two points ahead of the last-place Sunrise

The Thunder's Anthony Joynt makes a tackle during Interlake's 22-2 loss to the Falcons last Saturday.

Coyotes. Sunrise surprised the Southwest Wolves with a 16-8 win last Saturday.

The Thunder has a bye this weekend and then will wrap up its regularseason schedule with a road game against the Coyotes on Oct. 8. Game time is 3 p.m. "We're looking to get back on track (in our next game) but wins aren't going to be easy," Johnston admitted. "We have a bye this week so it will give us a chance to recover (from some injuries) and prepare with practices."

Karbonik ices scholarship with University of North Dakota

By Brian Bowman

As a youngster, Hailey Karbonik would head south of the border with her family to watch University of North Dakota hockey.

In two short years, UND fans will be watching her. Karbonik will join the University of North Dakota Fighting Hawks on a full scholarship for the 2018-19 season. The Fighting Hawks play in the WCHA along with Wisconsin, Ohio State, Minnesota, Bemidji, Minnesota Duluth, Minnesota State, and St. Cloud.

"I am really excited," said Karbonik, a St. Andrews native, last week. "When I was young, I used to go watch games down there so now it's a dream come true that I'll be playing there."

The close proximity of Grand Forks to St. Andrews was a big plus in Karbonik's decision to play U.S. college hockey in North Dakota. So too was UND's hockey program and the courses that the school offers.

Karbonik, 16, is currently in her third season with the St. Mary's Academy Flames prep hockey team. The Grade 11 blueliner recently came back from a Stony Creek University Showcase tournament in southern Ontario where her Flames finished with a 2-1-2 record.

The St. Mary's program is much like a university one with its extensive travel schedule and large number of games played each season.

"It's a really good experience," said the 5-foot-9 Karbonik, who earlier attended Lockport Junior High School."We do a lot of travelling."

Karbonik is blessed with good offensive instincts and plays a lot of minutes on the St. Mary's power play. She does a good job reading the play in front of her and making the right decisions with the puck. Karbonik got a great start to her hockey career by spending countless hours on her backyard rink and boys' hockey in the Lord Selkirk Minor Hockey Association where her dad, Ross, coached.

She then moved on to play Bantam"AAA" with the Winnipeg Hawks.

There are some obvious differences in the style of games played between the two genders. Speed and the physical aspect of the game are different, noted Karbonik.

"It was a little harder because I was the only girl," she said of her time with the Hawks."It was really > fun and I enjoyed my (time there) but I was also really excited to move on to girls' hockey."

> St. Mary's Academy head coach Larry Bumstead is really glad to have Karbonik join the Flames' program, which competes in the Canadian Sport School Hockey League.

> "She's now blossomed into a very good 200-foot, two-way player," Bumstead said. "She quarterbacks my power play, she kills penalties, and has an offensive mind to her. She's not afraid to rush the puck up the ice."

> Karbonik is a great hockey player and even better person, said Bumstead.

"As a Grade 11 player, she's good with our younger players," the head coach noted. "And she is a player that is capable of getting out of trouble very fast. She seems to find holes, and when you think she can't get out of (a situation), she does and then she's gone."

Karbonik is already a good high school player but she'll have to continue to work hard if she wants to excel at the collegiate level.

"She has to continue to work on the little things, like she has done all throughout her minor hockey before she started at St. Mary's," Bumstead noted. "She can't think that just because she made it that she can stop training.

"She's going to have to continue to train and train very hard. You don't want to be one of those girls who are just surviving – you just want to continue to develop.

"And, I know with her personality, that she will continue to work hard so she is ready."

Fishermen win, tie in preseason play

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Fishermen have gotten off to a pretty good start in their KJHL preseason.

The Fishermen started with an impressive 7-0 road win over the North Winnipeg Satelites on Sept. 20 and then Selkirk played to a 3-3 draw with the St. Malo Warriors last Saturday evening.

In the North Winnipeg win, Selkirk held period leads of 3-0 and 6-0.

Connor Spratt led Selkirk with two goals while Tyler Gerein, Gordie Longbottom, Talon Kelly, Treyton Smith, and Dawson Courchene also tallied.

Ryan Zdrill and Brady Hrymak split the goaltending duties for Selkirk.

No goal scorers from the St. Malo game were known at press time.

Selkirk hosted St. Malo this past Tuesday but no score was available. The Fishermen will then host the Satelites on Sunday (7:30 p.m.) at the Selkirk Rec Complex.

Selkirk will begin its KJHL regular season next weekend with home games against Arborg on Oct. 8 (7:30 p.m.) and Lundar the next day at 2:30 p.m.

"SHE'S NOW BLOSSOMED INTO A VERY GOOD 200-FOOT, TWO-WAY PLAYER."

Puckeye netcam hopes to score with goalies

By Brian Bowman

Hockey goalies never want a puck to find the back of their net.

But they should have no problem with a Puckeye netcam in their goal.

Jamie Krause, a longtime Stonewall resident, and his partner, Ken Zoppa, of Oak Bluff, have joined forces to start a company which makes a protective case for GoPro Hero cameras.

The units, attached to the inside of a hockey net, provide the same angle/ vantage point as seen on T.V. while protecting the camera from flying pucks. Krause came up with the idea while watching highlight-reel plays from the netcam's angle.

"It offered a great perspective of upclose action from the goalie's view," said Krause on the Puckeye website. "I thought it would be fun to get my own highlights - and lowlights - on camera."

Krause said he researched and designed their product for over a year and have begun sales in the last couple of months for the upcoming season. Each unit is hand poured and inspected by their staff to ensure a quality product every time.

The Puckeye is an excellent training aid for young goalies to have video review of their games and practices to help improve their skills. It's also a great invention for goalies playing in adult leagues that want to keep a momento of that big save.

"We quickly realized these videos are special for goalies of all ages and skill levels," Krause said, noting his company has sold about 100 Puckeye netcams so far.

Jamie Krause shows the Puckeye to Olympic silver medalist Fiona-Smith Bell.

"Including minor hockey goalies for self-review of practices or games to help improve their play, tournaments to offer some amazing souvenirs to players, as well as beer league tenders who want to remember that highlight save for years to come."

Currently, the device can be purchased on the puckeye.com website but Krause said they are in discussions with distributors from across Canada, the U.S., and Europe.

There is only one other company that offers a similar product, said Krause.

"But they don't offer any protection for the GoPro camera," he warned. "They just have a mount to put inside the net."

The Puckeye case is manufactured in Winnipeg and the company is proudly 100 per cent Canadian. The product comes in both black and white and is priced differently for the clamped version or the quick release model.

The quick release models sell for $124.99 and $129.99 while the clamp versions go for $144.99 and $149.99.

A fifth-place finish would normally get a team into the post-season, but just the top four teams make the playoffs this season due to regular-season games that were postponed due to inclement weather.

"Because of the rescheduled games, they took away the first round of the playoffs," Bruenig noted.

Selkirk FC finished with a pretty good record this past season, especially considering all of the changes that they had in their lineup.

"I hate to use the cliché, a 'rebuilding year' (but that's what it was)," Bruenig said. "But since January, I rebuilt the team twice with injuries and players leaving."

Despite so many changes to last year's squad, Selkirk FC built a nice core of players that played well in the second half of the season. The future looks promising for Selkirk FC next year.

"I'd like to say that if these guys stick together, we'll have a very competitive team in the near future," Bruenig predicted.

Meanwhile, the Tri-S Strike Force should be fresh when they battle Mobb United in a Division 5 semifinal clash this Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Ralph Cantafio Soccer Complex Field 1.

Tri-S last played a game on Sept. 9 to wrap up its regular season.

Tri-S finished its regular season in third place with a 10-4-4 record and 34 points. Mobb United was second with a 13-3-1 record and 40 points.

If the Strike Force wins that semifinal game, they would then advance to the division final slated for Tuesday (8:30 p.m.).

The stories that make us smile, and sigh And sometimes make us cry.

We have the pictures we hold so dear,

The oldest son's stature like you so near. The little girl who's feet you held in the palm of your hand.

The little boy you saw as your professor man. Sharing your left over lunch with the little one at home.

The youngest wearing your hard hat, and boots too,

So he could be just like you.

To us you died as a hero, trying to save others lives But that day the cries were from the wives.

Oh how we have missed you so.

We have hoped in our hearts you have been watching us grow.

-Always remembered and missed by your children.
